Japan Can Swim.
Why Gen. Wood Travels.
Useful Loan.
Housekeepers' Paradise.

—By Arthur Brisbane—

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11—Three days more of Olympic games after tonight.

Today the 14-year-old Japanese schoolboy, Kitamura, showed Western people how to swim. "Buster" Crabbe of the United States, who won the 400-meter championship yesterday, and Jean Taris, of France, wondered which of the two would win the first heat of the 1500-meter event. Kitamura ended their wondering by swimming ahead like a seal, leaving them to fight for second place.

National pride was soothed by Miss Lenore Kight, American girl, who established a new Olympic record winning the third heat of the 400-meter free-style championship, and Miss Helene Madison, of Seattle, probably the best woman swimmer in the world.

It is pleasure to see how Miss Madison puts on speed when Miss Marie Philipsen-Braun of Holland or some other lady tries to overtake her.

You may say that everything important is in the head and that physical achievements don't mean much. But whatever they mean, the United States has it.

Add to the list of important and intelligent people now in California Gen. R. E. Wood, now traveling through this Western country by airplane. General Wood, a West Pointer, was for several years in charge of government work on the Panama Canal. Now, he is president of Sears, Roebuck, and has been visiting his distributing departments and retail stores throughout the West.

His answer to the question, "Are you studying and correcting mistaken methods in your branch offices?" should interest business men.

"No," said he, "I am not looking for weakness in our branches. I am finding out by visiting these branches what is the matter with us at headquarters. If any part of a man's body doesn't work well, you know something is wrong in his head. If branches in a big organization don't work well, that shows something wrong, not with the branches, but their headquarters. By visiting our branches I find what is the matter with my own methods, and with headquarters generally."

Today President Hoover was formally notified of his nomination and tomorrow morning you will read his hopeful answer to the notification committee. Wall Street and the grain market did not wait for the official notification and arranged something on their own account that has brought cheer to many.

The President might celebrate the notification admirably by urging those in charge of the reconstruction finance committee to grant to Los Angeles, and 12 other cities that make up this water district, a loan for construction of an aqueduct from Hoover Dam to Los Angeles and the other 12 cities.

This loan would put 10,000 men to work immediately here, and give work to thousands of others in factories all over the country. It would be difficult to imagine any better use of public money than building this great aqueduct, and no loan could be safer.

Mr. John G. Bullock, member of the water district board of directors, composed of unselfish citizens giving their time without compensation, has prepared an itemized list, which has been sent to Washington, of materials that would be purchased, engineers, laborers and mechanics that would be employed, if this loan were made.

This writing follows a swift return trip to the writer's alfalfa ranch at Hodge on the Mojave Desert, 124 miles to the east and two thousand feet up in the air. Farmers may be comforted by news that the finest quality of baled alfalfa hay, with blue flowers still in the hay and not a weed, in a carload, sells f. o. b. Hodge for $8 per ton. Under irrigation 1,000,000 pounds of water are required to grow a ton of alfalfa and much electricity to pump the water, but alfalfa growing just now is profitable for everybody but the grower.

General conditions and the fact that Los Angeles dairymen have been having a "milk war," cutting the price to three cents a quart, have not improved the farmers' lot.

You can buy good hay, a little to the west in the Imperial valley, for $5 a ton. Trucks and trailers that haul the hay run day and night, two men on each truck, one sleeps while the other drives. Both work, loading and unloading. One man remarked cheerfully that he had not had his shoes off in 10 days. Men work for a living in these times. Many would be glad to work for their board, here, as in many other states. You can hire "servant girls" in Los Angeles for $5 a month and board. This

Roosevelt and Mayor's Attorney Clash Over Seabury Probe Testimony

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 12—His chin up with a grim, fighting smile, Mayor "Jimmy" Walker returned today to the state executive chamber and submitted to further interrogation by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt on the charges preferred by Samuel Seabury.

The mayor passed another big hurdle as the court today, when Governor Roosevelt decided that Mayor Walker may summon for cross-examination any witness who testified against him before the Hofstadter committee which investigated the mayor's administration.

The governor, however, overruled efforts by Walker's counsel to throw out the Hofstadter committee evidence and executive jurisdiction of acts of the mayor in his first term.

COURT SESSION AUG. 19

An order requiring Governor Roosevelt to show cause why he should not be restrained from passing on the right of Mayor Walker to continue in office was issued today by Supreme Court Justice Harold A. Hinman.

The order was issued at the request of Sidney Levine, attorney for George Donnelly, Bronx "home rule" advocate. It is returnable in Albany August 19 before Supreme Court Justice Ellis J. Staley for argument in the Appellate Division.

Levine yesterday made an unsuccessful attempt to stop the Walker hearing by court order.

The order obtained today does not have the effect of stopping the present proceedings, but merely of directing the Governor to show cause why he should not hold up his decision until Levine has made another attempt to get a writ of prohibition.

Gov. Roosevelt on taking his seat read a statement in which he clarified two points over which, he said, there apparently has been some misunderstanding.

First, the governor said, he intended to ask Judge Seabury if he had any questions to put to Mayor Walker.

And second, he pointed out, there has been contentions made concerning the power of the governor to remove the mayor in his first term.

10 DAYS MORE FOR GIRL'S DIME THEFT

BULLETIN

Dorothy Adams, hobo girl, was threatened with a prison sentence unless she revealed her real identity, it was learned. It is understood she will tell probation officers she is. The threat of the prison sentence was contained in the possibility that other charges, besides that of a 10-cent larceny, might be brought against her.

A 10-cent larceny plus a mysterious, homeless girl in male attire equals:

One night in the House of Detention.

One arraignment in open court.

Ten days in the House of Good Shepherd.

One star-chamber court session.

Another 10-day continuance. Bail of $1000.

Ten days in Charles St. Jail.

And the girl known as Dorothy Adams is more than ever a suntanned enigma to the authorities, and the authorities are somewhat of an enigma to the girl.

Ten days ago this girl of apparent refinement and reputed college education and rumored wealth stole a 10-cent role of adhesive tape in a downtown store to bind feet that had begun to ache as she trudged a long highroad in search of adventure.

OFFERED TO PAY

After a night in the House of Detention she faced Judge Charles L. Carr in municipal court. She admitted stealing the adhesive tape and offered to pay for it.

Judge Carr thought it best to hold her for 10 days and attempt to determine her real identity and situation. She was placed in the care of the probation department and sent to the House of Good Shepherd.

Today the charge against her was called again and attired in girl's clothing furnished by the

ANTI-WETS IN LURCH WHEN PRESIDENT DESERTS

He's for State Control; Tells How He and G. O. P. Saved Country

Further News and Pictures on Pages 2, 4, 6 and 8

Washington, Aug. 12—Professional drys who have incorporated themselves into a national board of strategy were aghast today. Notwithstanding the Republican platform and its resubmission plank, they had clung to the belief that President Hoover would not fail them, that he would stand fast to his previous utterances that constitutional prohibition was a noble thing which must be preserved and strengthened.

HOOVER'S NEW IDEA

But the President is now convinced that the "noble experiment" has failed, and he is willing to espouse a change in the prohibition set-up that will return the liquor problem to the states with federal safeguards against the return of the saloon and local safeguards for those states which prefer to remain dry.

He made this clear in his speech last night accepting the re-nomination for the presidency—a speech which left the professional drys gasping for breath, and which constituted an olive branch to the Republican wets who have been talking mutiny.

Mr. Hoover went further than the Republican platform in advocating prohibition reform. The platform merely proposed that prohibition be re-submitted to the people for an expression of opinion, without party recommendation as to repeal or retention.

But Mr. Hoover went further. He said it was his conviction that in order "to remedy present evils a change is necessary."

AGAINST OLD SALOON

At that, the drys got a little solace out of the speech. For the President spoke strongly against any return of the old saloon, and he insisted that prohibition be kept in the Constitution, where the wets contend that it should never have been placed, as for modification of the Volstead Act to permit beer, he ignored it completely.

Under the circumstances, the speech was pleasing to neither the extreme wets nor the extreme drys. But the important thing politically is that his advocacy of a change will give the influential Republican wets from the Atlantic seaboard an excuse to support the national ticket, and his condemnation of the saloon and his promise of protection for the dry states will give the moderate drys an alibi for supporting it, too.

DRYS IN DILEMMA

The allied dry organizations will decide shortly what they are going to do. They promised a statement late today on their campaign intentions. They have rather a Hobson's choice, for the Democratic platform and the Democratic candidate stand for the saloon.

Economy League Hit by Vets at Legion Meet

Lawrence, Aug. 12—The National Economy League, recently organized to reduce government expenditures, came under bitter verbal fire today at the convention of Massachusetts Department, American Legion.

While Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd argued before the resolutions committee in an attempt to block investigation of the league, Peter W. Pate, state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, denounced the league for "antagonizing" veterans.

Admiral Byrd, who is an honorary legionnaire as well as a member of the league, was to have been asked for an explanation of the league's attitude on veterans' legislation.

ATTACKED BY PATE

"The league was organized for the purpose of antagonizing and depriving veterans of what justly belongs to them," said Comdr. Pate, who appeared as a guest speaker.

"Some of the heads receive pay from the government and are also getting bonuses and adjusted compensation.

"They do not tell you that thousands in cantonements suffered from influenza during the war and are sick men today. Yet, the league is trying to prevent these men from getting compensation."

A move to eliminate the secret ballot from tomorrow's election stirred the delegates as the second day of the convention opened today, but it was reported adversely by the committee on constitutional amendments.

AGAINST SECRET BALLOT

The move was started by Suffolk County Council, which eliminated the Australian ballot system in a caucus that lasted until early this morning. John Kent was elected commander. George Curtin, vice-commander and nine delegates to the national convention were chosen by voice vote of the council.

Holyoke was voted as the convention city for next year. An earlier bid had been made by the Brockton delegates, but was with-

MARKET LAGS AFTER RISE

New York, Aug. 12—The stock market was highly irregular in early trading today. The list sagged in the first few minutes then bulged on buying of the utilities and chemicals, only to fall off again in the second period when wheat opened lower. President Hoover's acceptance speech gave little stimulus to the market.

Losses of 1 to 3 points at the start were regained and several issues advanced 1 to 3 before the next sag. American Telephone dipped nearly 2 points, rallied to show a fractional gain then fell back to show a loss of over 2 points.

Farm implement shares slumped in the second hour. Case Threshing lost over 5 points and International Harvester half as much. U. S. Steel, Atchison and Eastman lost around 2 or more points. Call money renewed at 2 per cent.

12 POLICE FIGHT WILD PRISONER

Fall River, Aug. 12—Charles Hayden, 35, of Freetown went berserk in court today and battled 12 policemen, inflicting injuries on several before he was handcuffed and carried to jail.

Hayden was in court charged with assault with a dangerous weapon on Fred Barton of Assonet, whom he accused of being too friendly with his wife. When court ordered him held for the grand jury, Hayden stood up and addressed the court as follows:

"You'll have to kill me right here. I'm not going in any dock."

He started to run from the courtroom and a policeman grappled with him. He felled the officer and started for the door again.

Eleven other officers present to prosecute various cases closed in on him and he put up a terrific struggle, while women spectators screamed and sought to make a getaway.

State Trooper Walter Nadowski was bitten on one cheek and Inspector Joseph Andrews was kicked in the face.

Hayden was arrested at Faneuil Hall Market in Boston yesterday by Nadowski and Herbert Jurney, a Freetown constable, and he put up a struggle there when they took him off a truck he had driven to market.

WALKER WINS RIGHT TO GRILL HIS ACCUSERS

GOV ROOSEVELT ANNOUNCES DECISION

N. Y. Mayor's Attorney Protests Admission of Testimony Before Committee

He declared that Seabury had turned over to him voluminous document dealing with this testimony. He reiterated that if the mayor or his counsel desire to dispute his testimony through the calling of witnesses he shall require the attendance of such witnesses.

CHALLENGE BY CURTIN

Atty. Curtin arose at Mayor Walker's table and assailed the manner in which the Hofstadter legislative testimony was taken, asserting that at no time was the Mayor fairly represented during those sessions.

"The evidence of the Hofstadter committee will be given such weight as in my judgment it is entitled to receive," said Gov. Roosevelt.

Curtain retorted that, for the purpose of the record, he respectfully took exception to the governor's ruling on acceptance of the "alleged testimony" before the Hofstadter committee.

"I object to your taking any testimony of the Hofstadter committee and regarding it as evidence," declared Curtin. "I challenge you to produce any case in the English language which says that such ex-parte testimony is evidence.

QUOTE FROM BIBLE

"Since when have minutes taken somewhere else become evidence here? Testimony taken somewhere else surely is not evidence here, Your Excellency.

"The first recorded instance of the value of cross-examination," he said, "is in the Bible itself."

Curtin recited the story of Susanna and the elders, who, repulsed by her, accused her of improper conduct with another man.

"She was condemned to death on the story of the elders," Curtin said. "Then up rose Daniel and said:

"Not so fast!"

"And so," he concluded, after relating how the stories of the elders disagreed when Daniel questioned them separately, "They put to death not Susanna, but the elders."

ROOSEVELT INTERRUPTS

Curtin argued that Seabury, not Walker, should submit a list of witnesses on whose testimony he relied most in drawing up his conclusions against Walker.

He objected to using Seabury's analysis of the evidence before the Hofstadter committee as a basis for questioning the mayor, on the ground that Seabury himself at yesterday's session called attention to a couple of mistakes in it, which he attributed to the printers.

Curtin cited a summary of the charges involving the Equitable Coach Co., Inc., prepared from 150 pages of testimony by George Trosk, an assistant of Seabury, as containing statements based on Trosk's conclusions, rather than the evidence.

"I am not holding this hearing," Roosevelt interrupted, "on conclusions by Judge Seabury or on briefs. They are not inevidence."

Several times the Governor evinced impatience during Curtin's prolonged argument.

"Never mind what he indicates," Roosevelt cut in once, as Curtin discussed Trosk's brief. "Stick to the evidence."

Curtin wound up with a repetition of his demand that Seabury produce witnesses to be cross-examined by Walker.

Roosevelt reiterated that the record did not include any briefs or conclusions.

"You have referred to the case of Susanna and the Elders," Roosevelt said. "I believe that is quite pat.

"You, Mr. Curtin, are in the position of the prophet, Daniel. I will not say that his honor is exactly in the position of Susanna—

"Sometimes I feel like it," Walker threw in.

"You, as Daniel, wish to cross-examine the elders," Roosevelt went on, smiling at Walker. "I have given you that privilege."

Lists New Accusers to Confront Walker

Albany, Aug. 12 (INS)—James E. Finegan, Brooklyn lawyer, who filed charges of malfeasance and "gross efficiency" against Mayor Walker, today said he planned to hand Governor Roosevelt a list of witnesses whom he wishes to put on the stand against the mayor in the public hearing now in progress.

Finegan described the majority of the witnesses as "brand new" and declared they had not testified before the Hofstadter legislative committee.

PROBE ASKED IN $10,000 FIRE

The fire marshal's office was today asked to investigate a blaze that swept a three story apartment building at 127 Hudson st., Somerville, with a loss of $10,000 last night.

The building is owned by Anthony Parella, who with his wife and two children occupy the third floor apartment. None of the occupants was at home at the time of the fire. The fire started under a rear piazza and burned through the roof.

Fred Harvey of Ladder Company 1, received a sprained ankle while fighting the blaze. Patrick Loan of Engine 1 was overcome by smoke.

More than 10,000 people were attracted to the scene.

Suicide Attempt Fails

Brockton, Aug. 12—Mrs. Lillian Wilson, 50, of Belmont st., is recovering today from her second attempt to commit suicide within six months.

HOOVER, DRY IN 1928, A WET IN 1932

Washington, Aug. 12 (INS)—The change that four years has made in President Hoover's attitude on prohibition is best illustrated by a comparison of his speech of acceptance in Palo Alto, Cal., in 1928, and his speech of acceptance in Washington last night.

AUG. 11, 1928, IN PALO ALTO

"I do not favor repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. I stand for the efficient enforcement of the laws enacted thereunder . . . Our country has deliberately undertaken a great social and economic experiment, noble in motive and far-reaching in purpose. It must be worked out constructively."

AUG. 11, 1932, IN WASHINGTON

"It is my conviction that in order to remedy present evils a change is necessary.

"It is my conviction that the nature of this change, and one upon which all reasonable people can find common ground, is that each state shall be given the right to deal with the problem as it may determine, but subject to absolute guarantees in the Constitution of the United States to protect each state from interference and invasion by its neighbors, and that in no part of the United States shall there be a return of the saloon system with its inevitable political and social corruption and its organized interference with other states."

ROOSEVELT WILL OPEN SPEAKING DRIVE AUG. 20

Will Answer Hoover in Series of Addresses Through West and the Midwest

Albany, Aug. 12 (AP)—What his rival for the White House, President Hoover, said last night about prohibition, the depression and other issues of the campaign only casually interested Gov. Roosevelt, who retired without reading a word of the Republican nominee's acceptance speech.

The Democratic candidate glanced at the morning papers before resuming his role as judge of the fitness of Mayor "Jimmy" Walker to remain in office.

Later, however, Mr. Roosevelt will put the President's comments under his political microscope. He will answer Mr. Hoover, and challenge his stand in a series of road speeches, the first of which will be in Columbus, O., Aug. 20. He is expected then to elaborate on his own attitude toward economic questions, particularly railroading.

OTHER SPEECHES

After the Columbus speech, the next address will be in Sea Girt, N. J., August 27. The following Saturday, September 3, he has two talks, one at noon in Schenectady, N. Y., and another that night in Bridgeport, Conn.

The Sea Girt engagement is to attend the quadrennial welcome to the candidate that Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City directs. Schenectady has arranged a Young Democrats rally, while the Bridgeport date is a reception to Archbold McNeil, national committeeman.

About the middle of September Roosevelt will commence his invasion of the Middle West and the Pacific Coast. It is understood that the speech in which the farm question will be taken up will be delivered at the Missouri Valley, perhaps in Kansas City or Omaha. Denver and Salt Lake City are tentative stops on the westward swing.

MAY GO TO COAST

It was understood campaign strategists are considering a suggestion that Roosevelt go north from Salt Lake to Butte, Mont., and then into the Pacific Northwest with stopovers in Seattle or Portland, or both.

California will beckon, with visits to San Francisco and Los Angeles likely. The return journey is tentatively set for the southwestern route through New Mexico and Arizona and Texas.

Hoover vs. Roosevelt

How Their Views on Nation's Problems Compare

Washington, Aug. 12 (AP)—This is what presidential candidates of the two big parties say about some of the country's problems:

PROHIBITION

HOOVER—It is my belief that in order to remedy present evils a change is necessary by which we resummon a proper share of initiative and responsibility which the very essence of our government demands shall rest upon the states and local authorities. That change must avoid return of the saloon.

ROOSEVELT—I am confident that the United States wants repeal. . . . We as Democrats must and will . . . enable the states to protect themselves against the importation of intoxicating liquors where such importations may violate their laws. We must rightly and morally prevent the return of the saloon.

TARIFF

HOOVER—I am squarely for a protective tariff. I am against the proposal of "a competitive tariff for revenue," as advocated by our opponents. That would place our farmers and our workers in competition with peasant and awaited labor products.

ROOSEVELT—I accept that admirable tariff statement in the platform of advocating a competitive tariff for revenue, with a fact-finding tariff commission, free from executive interference. Tariffs should be high enough to maintain living standards which we set for ourselves.

RECONSTRUCTION

HOOVER—I am today organizing the private industrial and financial resources of the country to cooperate effectively with the vast governmental instrumentalities which we have in motion so that we may move from defense to powerful attack. Recovery may be slow, but we will succeed.

ROOSEVELT—When we get the chance, the Federal government will assume bold leadership. Our Republican leaders tell us economic laws cause panics which no one could prevent. We must lay hold of the fact that economic laws are not made by nature. They are made by human beings.

WAR DEBTS

HOOVER—If for any particular annual payment we were offered some other tangible form of compensation such as expansion of markets for American agriculture and labor, and the restoration and maintenance of our prosperity, then I am sure our citizens would consider such a proposal. But it is a certainty that these debts must not be cancelled or the burdens transferred to our people.

ROOSEVELT—The debts will not be a problem if we allow motive to enter them. Our policy decides for payment, but at the same time for lowered tariffs and a resumption of trade which opens the way for payment.

FARM RELIEF

HOOVER—The most practicable relief to the farmer today aside from the general economic recovery is a definite program of readjustment and coordination of national, state and local taxation which will relieve real property, especially the farms, from unfair burdens. . .

ROOSEVELT—The practical way to aid the farmer is by an arrangement that will do something toward the reduction of the surpluses of staple commodities. Farm mortgages teach mainly to the Federal Farm Board. Our immediate concern should be to reduce the interest burden on farm mortgages.

TAXATION

HOOVER—The first necessity of the nation . . . is reduction in expenditures of government, state, national and local. It is the source of all taxes from the backs of the men which liberates their powers.

ROOSEVELT—For three long years I have been going up and down this country preaching that government—federal and state and local—costs too much. I shall not stop that preaching.

POWER

HOOVER—I have repeatedly recommended the federal regulation of interstate power. I shall persist in it. I have opposed the federal government undertaking the operation of the power business. I shall continue that opposition.

ROOSEVELT—Promised . . . to any more utter and endorsed the party platform declaration for "Regulation to the full extent of holding companies which sell securities in interstate commerce, rates of utility companies operating across state lines.")

FOREIGN RELATIONS

HOOVER—I have projected a new doctrine into international affairs: the doctrine that we do not and never will recognize title to possession of territory gained in violation of peace pacts. . . . This world needs peace. I shall continue . . . to explore every reasonable path that leads toward a world in which right triumphs over force. . . .

ROOSEVELT—By our actions we should make clear our belief in the sanctity of other nations' agreements and approval of the peaceful settlement of disputes "from foreign powers including peace acts as the world and the settlement of international disputes by arbitration, no interference in the internal affairs of other nations. . . .

Three Injured in Hingham Crash

Three persons were injured, two seriously, early today when their car left the state road in Whiting st., Hingham, and overturned. Mrs. Margaret E. Hamaell, her son, Ernest, 2, and Miss Ellen Cochrane, all of Weymouth, were rushed to Weymouth Hospital.

TODAY

is not a place to come looking for a job at high wages.

Coming West, passing the biggest pea canning factory in the world, just east of Ogden, Utah, you learn that ordinary workers formerly paid 60 and 70 cents an hour now get 18 cents an hour, $1.80 for a 10-hour day. Skilled mechanics get 22 cents an hour.

Don't come here looking for work, but if you have a small income and want to live economically, this is the place.

On the way to Hodge you see "two large cantalopes for five cents." You buy two pounds of string beans for five cents, peaches and plums for one and two cents a pound, lemons five cents a dozen, oranges eight dozen for 25 cents. One lady who lives at Hodge said, "You can fill the back of your automobile with vegetables and fruits of all kinds for 50 cents. It does not pay to plant a garden."

Wild animals that depend on nobody to hire them are fortunate. On the fine concrete road east of Victorville you disturb a buzzard, peacefully eating the remains of a rabbit crushed by an automobile. The bird flies up as you pass, then drops and resumes his repast. The automobile to him is a blessing. Its lights fascinate the rabbits, they do not move and the automobile kills them. Lights of big cities have something of the same effect on young men, but operate more slowly.

FIRST LADIES, PAST AND PRESENT, LAUNCH CAMPAIGN

MRS. HOOVER MRS. THEODORE ROOSEVELT, SR. EVERETT SANDERS

Mrs. Hoover and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Sr., widow of the ex-President, launched the Hoover campaign for re-election at a tea on the White House lawn previous to the notification ceremonies at which Hoover accepted the Republican nomination. Mrs. Hoover, in black, is shown next to her husband, while between him and Everett Sanders, Republican national committee chairman, stands Mrs. Roosevelt in white. The latter flew from Oyster Bay, N. Y., to Washington. (Int. News Photos.)

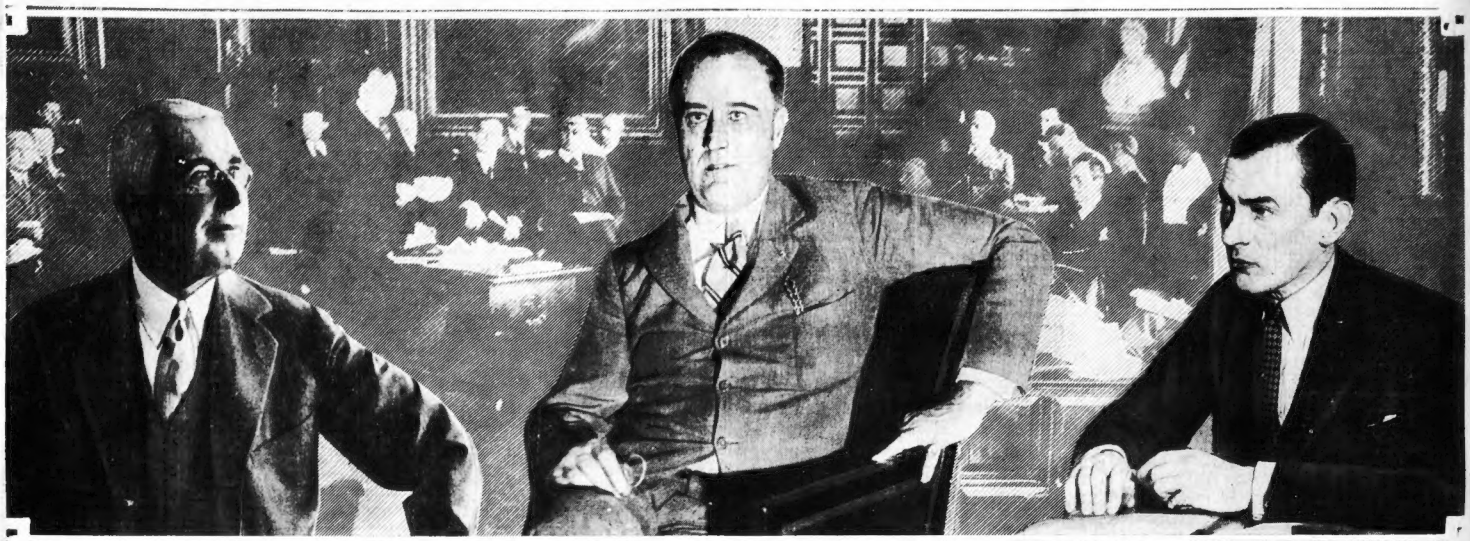
SUZANNE BOONE MRS. DERBY

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of the 26th President of the United States, dressed in black, was greeted by Mrs. Joel T. Boone, wife of the White House physician, and the latter's daughter, as Mrs. Roosevelt and her daughter, Mrs. Richard Derby, arrived in Washington for the Hoover notification ceremony. An ovation was given her at the ceremony.

JUSTICE IN BALANCE---AT WALKER HEARING IN ALBANY



SAMUEL SEABURY — GOVERNOR FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT — MAYOR JAMES J. WALKER

With Samuel Seabury, counsel for the Hofstadter investigating committee as prosecutor-extraordinary, Mayor James J. Walker of New York city, in Albany today, faced the second session of the public hearing in the executive chamber of the State Capitol before Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, who will determine whether the mayor is to be removed from office or is to remain chief executive of the world's largest city. The first session yesterday brought one decision in favor of the mayor when Governor Roosevelt ruled that any witnesses Walker desired to be called for examination at the hearings would be summoned by the Governor's office and subjected to the same close questioning that was in store for the mayor himself and any person he might call in his own behalf. This picture shows how the three principal figures in the momentous drama appear in their seats at the hearings, with newspaper men, State officials and a few others in the background. LIBBY IS LEFT OUT IN WILL OF PLAYBOY

(Pictures on Page 14)

By DAVID F. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1932, by International News Service.)

New York, Aug. 12 (INS)—Zachary Smith Reynolds, 20-year-old heir to part of the R. J. Reynolds tobacco millions, left a will, International News Service learned today, but did not mention the widow.

The boy for whose alleged murder Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds and Ab Walker, his friend, will go on trial within a few months, executed the document in August, 1931.

He filed it with a leading New York trust company.

The document, bequeathing his $15,000,000 portion of his father's estate unconditionally to his sisters and brother, will be offered for probate in New York shortly.

Neither his widow, nor the wife who divorced him, the former Anne Cannon, Concord, N. C., heiress, are mentioned in the legal paper. Neither is any provision made for a child.

TESTAMENTARY DISPOSITION

Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds has publicly stated she is to become a mother.

Although a minor, under the terms of his father's will Smith was empowered to make a "testamentary disposition" of his share of the estate before he reached his majority.

Under North Carolina law, a minor cannot make a legal document of this nature. Under New York law, a person over 18 years can execute a "testamentary disposition."

For this reason, supposedly Smith Reynolds came to New York and decided to acquire a residence here in 1931.

When he turned over the paper to the trust company he had just concluded a money settlement with his first wife, Anne Cannon. She received $500,000 and her daughter, now two years old, received an equal amount.

BEFORE HE WED LIBBY

The execution of the legal paper allotting his fortune in the event of death to his two married sisters, Nancy and Mary, and to his brother, Richard J. Reynolds, Jr., presumably was taken to protect this settlement.

It occurred three months before he and Libby Holman, Broadway "torch" singer, were married in Monroe, Mich.

The existence of the "testamentary disposition" was expected to prove the bone of contention in any civil action which may develop in contesting the ultimate distribution of the $60,000,000 estate of the late R. J. Reynolds.

The specific battle, according to legal authorities, will be fought over the legality of the New York residence said to have been established by Smith.

Without the admission to a probate court of the "testamentary disposition" of his estate by young Reynolds, it would appear that the widow, and perhaps the first wife, would have a standing in court to contest the estate under the provisions of the elder Reynolds will.

Wife Wins Purse But Puts Up Poor Fight With Husband

Philadelphia, Aug. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Catherine Scully won a $5 support order from her husband, Edward, but emerged from Domestic Relations court yesterday with disappointment written on her face. Of four blows she aimed at him before an amazed courtroom, only one landed. He has accused her of being a common scold.

HARVARD GRAD ENDS OWN LIFE

New York, Aug. 12—Morton Colton Nichols, 62, socially prominent financier and Harvard '92 graduate, killed himself today, making triply sure of death by using poison, an anaesthetic and a rope.

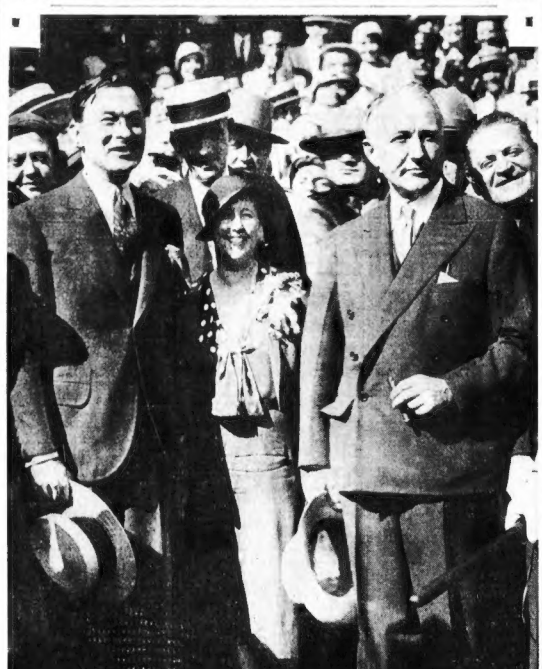
A maid found him hanging from a hook in the bathroom.

11-Year-Old Youth Steals Tombstone for Mother's Grave

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 11 (AP)—An 11-year-old orphan was held here today for stealing a tombstone to mark his mother's grave.

"Mother didn't have a tombstone over her grave," the boy told officers at the juvenile detention quarters, "and ever since she was buried I've wanted her to have one. I was trying to work and buy one."

CROWD ACCLAIMS WALKER IN FIRST TILT



MAYOR WALKER — MRS. WALKER — ATTY. CURTIN

After waiting for hours to catch a glimpse of him, a great crowd at Albany cheered and acclaimed Mayor "Jimmie" Walker when he appeared with Mrs. Walker and his counsel, Atty. John J. Curtin, following the first hearing before Gov. Ronsevelt in the fight to remove him. Walker brilliantly defended himself. (International News photo.)

CLARKE'S SKULL TO BE SHOWN IN COURT

Miami, Fla., Aug. 12 (INS)—The yellowing skull of Haden Clarke, 26-year-old writer, will be brought into court today in the effort to save from the electric chair Capt. William N. Lancaster, British wartime flier charged with his murder.

One of the most startling exhibits ever introduced in a murder trial, it will be placed before Dr. M. H. Tallman, defense expert, by chief defense counsel, James M. Carson.

It was Carson's intention to prove by the skull of Clarke himself that the pistol shot which ended Clarke's life was fired by his own hand, not that of Capt. Lancaster, from whom Clarke had stolen the love of his "Chubbie"—Mrs. Jessie M. Keith-Miller, noted flier.

POWDER BURNS

Blackened marks around the bullet hole behind the right temple, and powder burns inside the bony structure, the defense will contend, proved that the pistol which ended Clarke's life was held tight against his head by his own hand. It was their intention to support this contention by the testimony of experts, of which Dr. Tallman was the first.

Had the pistol been fired by another, the defense claims, even with the muzzle against Clarke's head, he would have clinched, even in his sleep and the powder burns would have been on the outer side of the scalp. K. R. Rees, undertaker, already has testified for the state that there were no powder burns on the outside flesh.

BALLISTICS EXPERTS

Tallman will be followed by Drs. Donald Gowe, Walter C. Jones, Jr., and Joseph S. Stewart and the defense will endeavor to clinch its contention with the testimony of one of the foremost ballistics experts in the world.

He is Albert H. Hamilton of Auburn, N. Y., who volunteered to appear for the defense when he read the state's testimony to the effect that no powder burns indicated murder.

Clarke's skull was prepared for evidence after Judge Atkinson, at the motion of the defense, had ordered the exhumation and an autopsy on the body of the young writer, 40 days after its burial.

$75,000 FIRE IN BYFIELD MILL

Byfield, Aug. 13—Three firemen were injured today while fighting a fire of suspicious origin which destroyed three buildings of the Byfield Woolen Mills. Loss is estimated at $75,000.

Firemen Clyde Smith, John Leahy, and Frank Witham received cuts about the head when struck by bricks after a wall collapsed. They were treated at the scene and continued on duty.

Aid was summoned from Georgetown and Rowley to battle the blaze. Fire Chief William Pearson has asked the state fire marshal to investigate.

The mill has been closed for three years.

Harvard Professor 'Shoots' 17 Meteors Per Minute

Harvard, Aug. 12 (INS)—While "star gazers" of the nation early this morning were witnessing the annual shower of Perseid meteors, Prof. William J. Fisher, Harvard University meteorologist, on an elevation here, carried on one of the most unusual experiments in astronomy.

Prof. Fisher took 55-minute exposures of the "shooting stars," estimated falling at the rate of 17 per minute. He also conducted camera studies to determine what effect the atmosphere has upon the stars.

He made his experiments with a specially rigged camera shutter, allowing 30 exposures a minute.

Observers really did not see the meteors, but streaks of incandescence which they leave in the vapor behind them in the sky.

3 Men, 3 Women Rob Graves, Mutilate Dead for 'Magic'

Helsingfors, Finland, Aug. 12 (AP)—Three men and three women were arrested today on a charge of mutilating bodies they had stolen from graves in Helsingfors cemeteries in the practice of "black magic."

All pleaded guilty, explaining they had committed their outrages "for occult reasons." About 40 such robberies and mutilations have been reported in two years.

Fan Falls in Tub, Bather Is Drowned

Oklahoma City, Aug. 12 (AP)—Hubert P. Ward, 21, was bathing last night in a tub of cool water and under the breeze of an electric fan.

The fan tumbled into the tub and the electric current shocked Hubert into insensibility. He drowned.

BOTH 'DARLINGS' SAYS RUTH

Ruth Chatterton, stage and film star, photographed on her arrival home from Europe. Discussing Ralph Forbes, from whom she is being divorced, she said he is a "perfect darling." Of George Brent, her former leading man, whom, it is reported, she will wed, she said: "He is a perfect darling." Asked about her next wedding she said: "I may be married again in 36 hours or 36 years." (Int. News Photos.)

WIFE PREDICTED MONKS' DEATH SAYS WOMAN

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 12 (AP)—Testifying for the State at the preliminary hearing of Mrs. Alice B. Monks and Wiley L. Watson on charges of passing worthless checks, Mrs. Frances Siegel said Mrs. Monks predicted last April her husband, Allan Bradford Monks, scion of a wealthy Boston family, would not live nine months.

This assertion, Mrs. Siegel testified, was made by Mrs. Monks as she was trying to negotiate the purchase of a San Diego ranch.

Mrs. Mabel Travis, her husband, J. J. Travis, and Mrs. E. F. Caldwell told of the "confinement" of Monks in a Long Beach apartment after Mrs. Monks had rented the place under the name of "Mrs. W. Lee."

Monks, described by all as appearing to be a "very sick man," was kept in the apartment day and night with Watson, Mrs. Monks' uncle, acting as nurse and guard, they said.

In an opening statement John Holt, deputy district attorney, said:

"We intend to prove that Mrs. Monks and Watson had Monks sign checks when he was insane. We will show that she was aware of Monks' mental deficiency at the time she encouraged him to sign the checks."

Authorities said Monks' family had been maintaining a bank account for him, but that the account finally had been closed, leaving some checks unpaid.

WOBURN DRIVER HELD IN CRASH

Brunswick, Me., Aug. 12 (AP)—Four persons were injured today when an automobile failed to negotiate a turn near the Bailey's Island-Orr's Island bridge and crashed into a telephone pole.

The injured were Mrs. Nancy Thompson, Doris Gillian, Arthur Shea, all of this place, and George Hern, of Woburn, Mass., driver of the machine.

Hern was held in jail on charges of driving while intoxicated.

The four had been to a dance at Bailey's Island.

S. P. C. A. MEDAL TO FIRE HERO

A medal was awarded by the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals today to Murray Lanneron, 21, of Upham rd., Quincy, for his work in saving six horses from the burning stables of Dr. E. Murray Britton, Elm st., West Quincy Monday.

Lanneron was on his way to work in Cambridge Monday night, when he saw the stable was in flames. After giving the alarm, he broke in the door and led the six fear-maddened horses to safety.

The medal was presented at the M. S. P. C. A. headquarters in Longwood ave. by President Francis H. Rowley.

Lanneron has saved two human lives.

SUMMARY OF PRINCIPLES ON WHICH HOOVER WILL ASK COUNTRY FOR RE-ELECTION

Washington, Aug. 12 (US)—In resting his case for re-election on his record of economic reconstruction designed to speed business recovery, President Hoover announced these principles:

TARIFF

"I am squarely for a protective tariff. I am against the proposal of 'a competitive tariff for revenue' as advocated by our opponents.

"I am against their proposals to destroy the usefulness of the bi-partisan tariff commission. That instrumentality enables us to correct any injustice and to readjust the rates of duty to shifting economic change."

WAR DEBTS

"My views in opposition to cancellation of war debts are a matter of detailed record in many public statements and a recent message to Congress. I am hopeful of such drastic reduction of world armament as will save taxpayers in debtor countries a large part of the cost of their payments to us, if for any particular annual payment we were offered some other tangible form of compensation such as the expansion of markets for American agriculture and labor, and the restoration and maintenance of our prosperity, then I am sure our citizens would consider such a proposal. But it is a certainty that these debts must not be cancelled or the burdens transferred to our people."

NATIONAL DEFENSE

"I insist upon an army and navy of a strength which guarantees that no foreign soldier will land on American soil. That strength is relative to other nations. I favor every arms reduction which preserves that relationship."

IMMIGRATION

"I favor rigidly restricted immigration."

TRANSPORTATION

"I have repeatedly recommended to the Congress a revision of the railway transportation laws, in order that we may create greater stability and greater assurance of vital service in all our transportation. I shall persist in it.

POWER

"I have repeatedly recommended the Federal regulation of interstate power. I shall persist in that. I have opposed the Federal government undertaking the operation of the power business. I shall continue that opposition.

CONSERVATION

"I have for years supported the conservation of national resources.

FINANCIAL REGULATION

"There have been exploitation and abuse of financial power. We will fearlessly and unremittingly reform such abuses. The American people must have protection from insecure banking through a stronger system. They must be relieved from conditions which permit the credit machinery of the country to be made available without adequate check for wholesale speculation in securities with ruinous consequences to millions of our citizens and to national economy. I recommended to the Congress emergency relief for depositors in closed banks. For seven years I have repeatedly warned against private loans abroad for nonproductive purposes. I shall persist in these matters.

TAXATION

"I have insisted upon a balanced budget as the foundation of all public and private financial stability and of all public confidence. Recent increases in revenue, while temporary, should be again examined, and if they tend to sap the vitality of industry, and thus retard employment, they must be revised."

ECONOMY

"It is through lower expenditures that we get lower taxes. This must be done. If we except those extraordinary expenditures imposed upon us by the depression, it will be found that the Federal government is operating for $200,000,000 less annually today than four years ago. The Congress rejected recommendations from the administration which would have saved an additional $150,000,000 this fiscal year. The opposition leadership insisted, as the price of vital reconstruction legislation and over my protest, upon adding $300,000,000 of costs to the taxpayer through public works inadvisable at this time. The opposition leadership in the House of Representatives in the past four months secured passage by the House of $3,000,000,000 in such raids. They have been stopped. I shall continue to oppose raids upon the Federal treasury."

REORGANIZATION

"I have repeatedly for seven years urged the Congress either themselves to abolish obsolete bureaus and commissions and to reorganize the whole government structure in the interest of economy, or to give someone else the authority to do so. I have succeeded partly in securing authority, but I regret that no substantial act under it is to be effective until approved by the next Congress.

FARM RELIEF

"With the collapse in world prices and depreciated currencies the farmer was never so dependent upon his tariff protection for recovery as he is at the present time. We have enacted many measures of emergency relief to agriculture. They are having effect.

"The most practicable relief to the farmer today aside from the general economic recovery is a definite program of readjustment and co-ordination of national, state, and local taxation which will relieve real property, especially the farms, from unfair burdens of taxation which the current readjustment in values has brought about. To that purpose I shall devote myself."

ST. LAWRENCE TREATY

"After 20 years of discussion between the United States and the great nation to the north, I have signed a treaty for the construction of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway. That treaty does not injure the Chicago to the Gulf waterway, the work upon which, together with the whole Mississippi system, I have expedited, and in which I am equally interested. We shall undertake this great seaway, the greatest public improvement upon our continent, with its consequent employment of many men as quickly as the treaty is ratified."

CURRENCY

"Our views upon sound currency require no elucidation. They are indelibly a part of Republican history and policies. We have affirmed them by preventing the Democratic majority in the House from effecting wild schemes of uncontrolled inflation."

LAW ENFORCEMENT

"I have furnished to the Congress and to the states authoritative information upon the urgent need of reorganization of law enforcement agencies, the courts and their procedure, that we may reduce the lawlessness and crime in the country. I shall again press this necessity."

PRISON REFORM

"Upon my recommendations the Congress has enacted the most extensive measures of prison reform of two generations. As a result, and despite the doubling of the number of persons under federal restraint in three years, we are today returning them to society far better fitted for citizenship."

SPIRITUAL LEADERSHIP

"The leadership of the federal government is not to be confined to economic and international questions. There are problems of the home, of the education of children, of citizenship, the most vital of all to the future of the nation. Except in the case of aid to states which I have recommended for stimulation of the protection and health of children, they are not matters of legislation. We have given leadership to the initiative of our people for social advancement through organization against illiteracy, through the White House conference on protection and health of children, through the national conference on home ownership, through stimulation to social and recreational agencies. These are the visible evidences of spiritual leadership by government."

FOREIGN RELATIONS

"My foreign policies have been devoted to strengthening the foundations of world peace. We inaugurated the London naval treaty, which reduced arms and limited the ratios between the fleets of the three powers. We have made concrete proposals at Geneva to reduce armaments of the world by one-third. It would save the taxpayers of the world a billion a year. It would save us over $200,000,000 a year. It would reduce fear and danger of war.

LEAGUE COURT

"I have recommended joining the world court under proper reservations preserving our freedom of action.

KELLOGG-BRIAND PACT

"We have given leadership in transforming the Kellogg-Briand pact from an inspiring outlawry of war to an organized instrument for peaceful settlements backed by definite mobilization of world opinion against aggression. We shall, under the spirit of that pact, consult with other nations in times of emergency to promote world peace.

NEW DOCTRINE

"Above all, I have projected a new doctrine into international affairs, the doctrine that we do not and never will recognize title to possession of territory gained in violation of the peace pacts. That doctrine has been accepted by all the nations of the world on a recent critical occasion, and within the last few days has been accepted again by all the nations of the Western Hemisphere. That is public opinion made tangible and effective."

Aged Invalid Saved While Home Burns

Oakland, Calif., Aug. 12 (AP)—His home was on fire but P. J. Evans, 87, bedridden for 10 years, could not be moved.

Firemen, told an attempt to move him would be fatal, covered the invalid with a rubber sheet, supplied him with oxygen from a tank to prevent suffocation from smoke and then successfully combatted the fire.

HOOVER SPEECH DENOUNCED BY DRY LEADERS

Seattle, Aug. 12 (AP)—President Hoover's advocacy of a revision of national prohibition was denounced as foreshadowing a "destructive change" by Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Together with delegates here for the 58th annual national convention which opens tonight, Mrs. Boole listened to the broadcast of the President's address.

"American statesmanship cannot work out a solution that will be effective," she commented last night in a formal statement on the prohibition section of the President's address, "which will make this country part wet and part dry.

"The proposed plan will be opposed by the dry forces every step of the way."

WILSON HITS SPEECH

Portland, Ore., Aug. 12 (AP)—Dr. Clarence True Wilson, head of the Methodist Episcopal Church board of prohibition, temperance and public morals, said in a written statement to the Associated Press that President Hoover's stand on prohibition will not get the wet vote away from the Democrats and will not meet with the "moral conditions of the drys who elected him by a majority of millions four years ago."

Although the President made the "greatest speech of his life," Dr. Wilson added, "he fell into two fundamental and irreparable errors: Assumption that the purpose of prohibition is to get rid of the saloon and the policy of defeatism."

COLVIN OPPOSES

Chicago, Aug. 12 (AP)—D. Leigh Colvin, chairman of the Prohibition party's national committee, today attacked the liquor control plan advocated in President Hoover's acceptance speech, asserting "no opponent of liquor can support such an amazing proposal by voting for Mr. Hoover."

VOLSTEAD SILENT

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 12 (AP)—Andrew J. Volstead, author of the prohibition enforcement act, today declined to comment on President Hoover's speech advocating a change in the Eighteenth Amendment.

PRAISED BY COX

Dayton, O., Aug. 12 (AP)—James M. Cox, the Democratic presidential nominee in 1920, listened to President Hoover's acceptance speech and then commented:

"It is decidedly Hoover's best effort. It shows marked improvement in spirit and courage. He has made the best out of a very bad case."

SATISFIES DAWES

Chicago, Aug. 12 (AP)—President Hoover's acceptance speech was praised as "able and effective" by Charles G. Dawes, former Vice-President.

"To me it was an able and effective speech," the Chicago banker said. "I agree with him in his position on all points."

Col. Ira L. Reeves, Western director for the Crusaders, said he was surprised that the President spoke as frankly as he did.

Col. Reeves said the President had gone further than the platform and "he certainly is not so ambiguous as the platform was."

Hoover Sets Pace to Speed Up National Campaign

Washington, Aug. 12 (AP)—Paced by the issues of prohibition and economic recovery, the presidential campaign had caught its second wind with last night's big Republican jubilee in Washington and may be expected to move with a livelier step from now on in every section of the country.

After a period of planning on both sides, President Hoover accepts the nomination with a pronouncement for a prohibition change and a new attack on depression.

Gov. Roosevelt will reply a week from tomorrow in a speech at Columbia, O.

Then the voters at least will have something tangible to argue about.

REVEALS G. O. P. STRATEGY

Mr. Hoover's prohibition proposal—to leave the question to the States, but to protect dry states against importation and to outlaw the saloon—left no doubt of the trend of Republican strategy on that issue.

In the space of the 1000 words the President devoted to the subject, the Republican nominee declared four separate times that he was opposed to the saloon. Unquestionably that world will recur many, many times in coming weeks as Republican speakers seek to brand the Democratic party as the "saloon party."

The designation, of course, is indignantly disavowed by Democratic leaders, who contend their repeal plank would mean neither a return of saloons nor any of the other ruinous results predicted by the President. The argument over that point seems certain now that so much emphasis has been given it, to continue to have a large place in campaign oratory.

PROBLEM FOR DRYS

It is too early to judge what organized wets and drys will do about the Hoover declaration. Even submission has been opposed by some of the more militant dry societies, although they have indicated they would concentrate their energies on electing acceptable members of Congress, rather than a President.

As Mr. Roosevelt favors repeal, drys who insist on having a candidate committed to the present regime would appear to have no place to go except into the prohibition party.

Whatever he may say about prohibition at Columbus, the Democratic nominee is expected to devote much of his speech to dissent from Mr. Hoover's economic views. Governor Roosevelt has some proposals to make about the depression, and some of his advisers believe he is about ready to give them to the public.

ON THE SOAP OF BEAUTIFUL WOMEN

HERE'S a bit of good news simply told. You are getting a wonderful break—an outstanding value—when you step up and ask for Camay—The Soap of Beautiful Women.

For, never in your lifetime has such a fine soap, so beautifully wrapped, so delicately perfumed, ever sold at so low a price. Women everywhere are welcoming this soap at this new, low price. Thousands of new friends every day for Camay—women keen for Camay quality, keen for the value Camay gives them.

THE SOAP OF BEAUTIFUL WOMEN

Beauty experts and skin doctors have long ranked Camay as the finest soap for women's skin. Its lather is milder, gentler, more luxuriant. Judged by every law of value, Camay's price should be higher, not lower, than the price of any other beauty soap that you would think of using.

But now at the new low prices Camay saves you at least 20% (1/5) of the money you spend for beauty soap! It comes to you in a package beautiful to behold—protected by Cellophane as a beauty soap should be.

Camay's price was never so low, Camay's quality never so high. Buy it today and let its gentle lather work its wonders on your skin. The price is so low that you can afford a dozen cakes.

REDS OUSTED BY BONUS ARMY, SAYS WATERS

Walter W. Waters, commander of the Bonus Expeditionary Forces, arrived in Boston today to tell the truth about the bonus army.

He had four cents in the pocket of a pair army breeches. The breeches were donated to him by an army comrade.

As guest of the city and Stephen C. Garrity, state commander of the American Legion, Waters made a visit to City Hall and then left for Lawrence to address the veterans in convention.

"I want to clarify the minds of the public as to the type of men who made up the unit that was driven from Washington and I want to tell the truth about affairs in the Capital," he told the Boston Evening American.

AMAZING LOYALTY

"First of all, I want to convince the citizens of Boston and of the entire country that Communists or any other kind of Reds were strictly barred from our ranks and narrowly escaped severe treatment because of moves they made to join us.

"Among our own men the loyalty to America was amazing, especially in the face of conditions that should have incurred the wrath of any men.

"But our unit is not bitter against our country. The ones are bitter against the administration and consider the Washington affair a violation of their Constitutional rights.

"They love this country but they want and insist that conditions be changed."

TELLS OF LONG TREK

Commander Waters, blonde-haired and keen-eyed, said he started the trek to Washington with the first unit from Portland, Ore., little suspecting the vast movement that was in the making.

He said few plans were made and that no sponsorship, whatever, was sought or given the movement.

"It was a spontaneous movement. And when the movement reached the 20,000 mark in two weeks, bitter opposition came from the administration," he said.

"A Communistic group came in and they were referred to as a 'left wing' of our army. They weren't even that. They were driven away from us and I had difficulty in preventing my men from beating them up."

Waters charged the administration was not interested in the people of America but chiefly in organizing minorities with a view toward class slavery.

He predicted that the "Battle of Washington" would be the subject of a Congressional investigation in December.

drawn to make the Holyoke selection unanimous.

Richard F. Paul, former department commander and present national vice-commander, addressed the convention as did Brig.-Gen. John F. Agnew, adjutant-general of the Massachusetts National Guard. Gen. Agnew brought the good wishes of Governor Ely.

Bonus and repeal were the big items in the resolutions and became even more interesting with the arrival of Hanford McNider, past national commander, and openly opposed to the bonus and Walter W. Waters, commander of the bonus expeditionary forces.

CRY OF "POLITICS"

Scores of delegates were prepared to fight repeal on the grounds that the subject amounts to "politics," which are taboo in legion ranks. Others claimed prohibition to be an economic question.

In addition to the other battles, there were several skirmishes, notably the campaign of John C. Clougherty of Suffolk County for vice-commander. Clougherty was running on a platform which embraced the bonus, elimination of the Eighteenth Amendment and denunciation of the Red Cross for its attitude towards the B. E. F. Clougherty has been with the Suffolk County council since its inception and has held office for five years. He is past commander of Ensign J. J. O'Connell Post and has been adjutant for five years.

FOY CONCEDED EDGE

Frank Foy has for opposition James P. Rose for the office of commander. Rose for three years was a vice-commander and was a charter member of the South End Post and the Yankee Division Club. Odds were on Foy for election.

James E. Conway, retiring commander of Suffolk County Council, is one of the candidates for vice-commander.

The Bessie Edwards Post, all women, was looking forward to Saturday when they will enter their bugle and drum corps in a competition.

As there is only one woman member of the executive committee, the post is solidly behind Mrs. Helen A. Murray for that position. Miss Alice Carey, executive secretary of the Veterans Bureau, her campaign manager, was confident of success.

RUM GANGS PAY $2500 MONTHLY FOR PROTECTION IN FALL RIVER

Fall River, Aug. 12—The "two-bits and sawbuck" system by which rum-runners and bootleggers pay $2500 monthly for alleged "police protection" in Fall River is running smoothly now that Corp. Robert Thompson, of the State police, has been transferred to what the boys are pleased to call the "sticks."

It seems that Corp. Thompson, during his last few nights as executive of the Freetown barracks, a few miles from here, did a little road work and, I am informed, beheld a sight or two that confused him everything was not strictly on the up-and-up in the neighborhood of the Fall River-Westport line. You will note that I say the corporal made his discoveries in the last few nights of his Masked Reporter terms at Freeport. It was regretable, for the corporal at least, that he was transferred so suddenly last June to Petersham Barracks up Springfield way. Because in another night or two he might have uncovered a racket that would shock the good people of Fall River, if not the entire state.

I've often heard it said that a cop can be too curious and I have no doubt that Corporal Thompson will have time to reflect on that axiom as he patrols the tall timbers in far-off Petersham.

But the passing of Corp. Thompson will not prevent the good people of Fall River from getting the low-down on the racket. I spent several nights checking the thing one way and another and, besides getting what I hope you will think a good story, I got myself several hilarious laughs.

RUM DEALERS TAXED

The system, I learned, was inaugurated about a year ago when a big bottle man went into a huddle with the owners of a Pleasant st. drug store. The conference was held at the behest of a couple of "higher-ups" and was productive of a so-called pool, with the bootleg and rum runners providing the wherewithal. Fifteen bootleggers plying their trade principally in the Flint district of Fall River, contribute $10 weekly each, for the privilege of peddling pints.

The rum runners, including the New York syndicate which, as I have said, controls the Cape Cod trade, pay the pool boys 25 cents per case for every load that rumbles through this city in the small hours of the morning. The bottle men and the drug-store man solicit these fees for "police protection." In other words, they tell the rum trade if they pay up they need have no fear of the cops.

Occasionally the soliciting is done by a marine engine man and it was the method used by this man that afforded me one of the hilarious laughs. A rum runner talked the matter over with me quite frankly and it was through him that I substantiated the story that had first been told me by a wealthy and influential citizen of this city.

This particular rum runner sends plenty of loads through Fall River. He told me the names of the three rum running organizations that pay the "two-bits" per case fee to the pool boys.

working from the hip paid $10 a week to the pool and that every other rum runner going through the city paid the 25 cents per case fee.

"He told me that the dough went to the Fall River cops and that it averaged $2500 every month, I could see that the figure was about right and I decided the pool was getting enough without taking me.

POLICE TIPPED OFF

"Then he got mad and said the next load I sent through there would be grabbed. I asked him who would grab it and he told me. Then I inquired what guys collected from the pool and when he told me I nearly collapsed. 'My dear man,' I says to him, 'I've been paying those same guys direct for months.'

"But I guess this solicitor didn't believe me because a couple of nights later I sent out a phony tip that I was going through with a load, and I went out to scout Stafford rd. and, sure enough, there was the cops all set to knock me off."

My rum-runner informant then explained that the pool boys give their paying customers a pretty good class of service, even going so far as to provide the rum trucks with an escort through town.

The big bottle man usually commands the escort detail and does the driving of the escorting car. In the rear seat ride two, sometimes three, other men who serve as dissuaders of hi-jackers.

Tomorrow the Masked Reporter will write of "Golfy," the one-time Coast Guard stool pigeon, who now runs a gin-mill in Newport—How "Golfy" went aboard a Coast Guard patrol boat ostensibly to "linger" the drops or landing places of rum runners on Cape Cod but instead used a flashlight to warn the rummies of the guardsmen's presence—How he was discovered and narrowly escaped being tossed into the Atlantic by the irate skipper.

Officer's Transfer Routine Matter, Says Foote

Commissioner of Public Safety Alfred E. Foote made this statement today about Corp. Thompson's transfer:

"Thompson's transfer was simply a routine matter. The policy of the department is not to keep a man in one place over a year. Corp. Thompson had been at the Freetown barracks about that length of time and his transfer came about the same as those of other members of the force."

Town With Surplus Passes Up All Taxes

Jamestown, Pa., Aug. 12 (AP)—Jamestown borough citizens will pay no taxes for 1932. The borough council has decided all current expenses can be met through interest payments on invested borough funds.

Sibley Tells Mrs. Peabody to Set Sail

Jubilant over the "timely about face" by President Hoover on the liquor question, David F. Sibley, executive secretary of the Constitutional Liberty League, today issued a statement advising Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, to take the next boat for the "Isle of Stubbornness."

Mrs. Peabody, wealthy North Shore society dry leader, gained nation wide prominence when she "deserted" Massachusetts for Florida following the repeal here of the State "Baby Volstead Act."

The Constitutional Liberty League, ever since the advent of prohibition, has been working steadily for its defeat.

"President Hoover," Secretary Sibley said today, "has smashed to smithereens the bogey dishonesty held out to the people by the dry fanatics that prohibition has owned him body and soul. His timely about face spells disaster for the Anti-Saloon League, the W. C. T. A., the Carvers, Canons, Dinwiddies and McBrides.

"And Mrs. Peabody may well take the next boat for the 'Isle of Stubbornness.'

"The constitution of the United States may well prepare for its new birth of freedom. Let us pause and salute 'Old Glory,' for 'My Country 'Tis of Thee, Sweet Land of Liberty.'"

Charles A. Kidder Dead

Charles A. Kidder, who up to his retirement six years ago was employed by Swift & Co. for 48 years, is dead at his home, Central st., Somerville.

7 DRIVEN OUT BY LYNN BLAZE

Flames drove seven persons from their beds at 813 Western ave., West Lynn, today.

Patrolman Maurice Keenan and Thomas Grady, Lynn police, found the fire raging in the variety store of Samuel Goldman on the ground floor.

After sending in an alarm they roused the inmates. These were Helen and Evelyn Pydewski, 12 and 13, their older brothers, Charles and Stefan, their uncle, Andrew Pydewski, a photographer, and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Tarso, who were asleep on the first floor rear, close to the flames.

The store was badly damaged and the rest of the building suffered chiefly from smoke. Damage is set at $2500.

HELD IN 10-CENT THEFT

State she went to court from the House of Good Shepherd in a taxicab, accompanied by a matron of the probation office.

There was no open court session today, however. She was taken into Judge Carr's lobby from which all except court officials were excluded.

Something of what transpired behind the closed door became known later. The girl declined to change her story that she was from Portland, Me., that she had attended college, that her father was dead and that she was on a bike and search of adventure.

REFUSES TO GO BACK

Judge Carr thought it necessary to continue the case for another 7 days and attempted to return her to the House of Good Shepherd pending when there must be voluntary however, and although Miss Adams chose to go there 10 days ago she stubbornly refused today.

So Judge Carr set bail at $200 and because there was nobody to bail her she went to Charles jail to wait another 10 days with authorities, who have broader description, a week to learn more she really is.

While waiting to go to jail she was ordered returned to the dock and Court Officer Anthony Mahegan was instructed to keep her separated from other girls in the dock. She sat there very quiet, perhaps reflecting upon what might have happened to her if she had stolen a watch.

When Judge Carr left his lobby he was asked if the girl had been identified.

SOUGHT QUIET TALK

"No," he said. "I thought I would help her by bringing her into the lobby and having a quiet talk with her."

"Did you help her, Your Honor?" he was asked.

"We're holding her for further investigation," he said.

In contrast to her first appearance, when she wore a pair of trousers and a man's shirt open at the neck, the girl of mystery appeared today any well-dressed member of her sex in a brown ensemble furnished by the probation matron.

APPEARS BAFFLED

She smiled occasionally and said nothing except when she was questioned. She appeared to be quite as baffled over the repercussion to her 10-cent theft as the authorities are baffled over who she is.

Whether, if she chose to reveal her identity, her case would be disposed of and she would be freed, no one would say, but the girl herself continued to maintain an attitude of "that's my story and I'll stick to it until the cows come home."

M'CORMICK IS BACK HOME

Chicago, Aug. 12 (AP)—The condition of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, daughter of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., who is seriously ill in a Gold Coast hotel, was said to be unchanged today.

Her divorced husband, Harold McCormick, harvester king, arrived here yesterday from the Pacific coast. He said he had been on the coast on a business trip and declined to discuss reports that he planned to visit his former wife.

A daughter, Mrs. Mathilde McCormick Oser, was expected here Wednesday from France. Mrs. McCormick's other two children, Fowler and Mrs. Muriel McCormick Hubbard, are with their mother.

HOOVER'S SWITCH TO WET SIDE ON PROHIBITION SHOCKS DRYS

HOOVER SWITCH SHOCKS DRY LEADERS

peal of the amendment as against Mr. Hoover's qualified modification of it.

Mr. Hoover spoke only three minutes for prohibition. He spoke for more than an hour about economic issues, and in that hour he proclaimed his willingness to go to the country on the record which his administration has made in dealing with the depression.

The 5000-word speech the President read after having been notified of renomination through Rep. Snell became the Republican campaign gospel for 1932.

Approximately 5000 words of the speech were devoted to economic issues.

SILENT ON BONUS

The President was silent on the veterans' bonus. He made no reference to his use of Federal troops for eviction of the bonus army. In his discussion of the economic and social system, of "ordered freedom" and "equality of opportunity" he said:

"This is not an individualism which permits men to run riot in selfishness or to override equality of opportunity. It permits no violation of ordered liberty.

"Equality of opportunity contains no conception of exploitation by a selfish, ruthless, class-minded men or groups. They have no place in the American system. As against these stand the guiding ideals and concepts of our nation. I propose to maintain them."

The President omitted any reference to the St. Lawrence water power issue in the dispute between himself and Governor Roosevelt. His only defensive reference to the treaty with Canada was:

"The treaty does not injure the Chicago to the Gulf waterway, the work upon which, together with the whole Mississippi system, I have expedited, and in which I am equally interested."

MANY JOBS PROMISED

Again, he called the St. Lawrence project "the greatest public improvement" which can be undertaken with its consequent employment of many men as quickly as the treaty is ratified."

"I have repeatedly recommended federal regulation of interstate power and will persist in that," he said. He added:

"I have opposed the federal government undertaking the operation of the power business. I shall continue that opposition."

That, presumably, meant Muscle Shoals.

"I gladly give tribute to those members of the Democratic party in Congress whose patriotic cooperation against factional and demagogic opposition has assisted in a score of great undertakings," he asserted.

That tribute was confined, however, to Democratic cooperation with his program. Where proposals clashed with his ideas, Mr. Hoover scuttled the opposition.

The Garner public works program was called a Treasury raid.

In extolling "sound principles" policies of the Republican party the President said:

"WILD RECEPTION" ASSAILED

"We affirm them by preventing the Democratic majority of the House from effecting wild schemes of uncontrolled inflation."

Although stating that existing taxes should be again examined, he committed himself to no specific reform. He withheld approval of the general manufacturers' sales tax when economists have urged.

Mr. Hoover declared for a protective tariff. He did not say whether he meant the Hawley-Smoot act. He declared against the Democratic proposal for a competitive tariff commission. That would be disadvantageous to farmers and workers, he said.

Hoover took a slap at "Coolidge economy."

"Except for those extraordinary expenditures imposed on us by the depression" he said he was running the government for $200,000,000 less a year "than four years ago." He blamed Congress for inaction on reorganization of federal departments.

The best relief for the farmer is reduction of taxes, the President maintained.

Broadly, Mr. Hoover's contention was that in the past three years of "unparalleled economic calamity" the "policies I have inaugurated have protected and aided the nation in the navigation of the ship of state in this storm."

HE SERVED THE COUNTRY

His indirect answer to those who hark back to his campaign promises of four years ago—"the end of poverty, 'four years of Hoover prosperity,' "a chicken in every pot," and "two cars in every garage" was that only traditional Republican policies and his own vision and leadership had saved the country from a worse fate, that only through their continuance could come realization of his belief that while "recovery may be slow, we will succeed."

"Should my countrymen again place upon me the responsibilities of this high office I shall carry forward the work of reconstruction.

"I shall hope long before another four years have passed to see the world prosperous and at peace, and every American home again in the sunshine of genuine progress and genuine prosperity."

Hoover left untouched the issues raised by Gov. Roosevelt, in his acceptance speech at Chicago, "a new deal" in American politics. He contended himself with a generalization against "haphazard experimentation or revolution."

Only once did he appear to answer one of the chief criticisms of his relief program, that raised by Senator Hiram Johnson. Touching the loans made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to banks, railroads, insurance companies, Hoover said defensively:

"This was not done to save a few stockholders but to save 25,000,000,000 of American families."

The President detailed the steps he had taken to combat the depression in contrast with what he asserted to be fundamental national principles.

'WOULD HAVE BEN WORSE'

Throughout ran the strain that except for his leadership and in spite of the great odds, the country would have been in a far worse plight than at the moment.

Nowhere was there the slightest suggestion of weakness or failure, no recognition of the justice of any criticism. His tone rather was one of personal gratification, for his record.

"If it shall appear that while I have had the honor of the presidency I have contributed the part required from this high office to bringing the republic through this dark night and if in my administration we shall see the break of the dawn of a better day, I shall have done my part in the world. No man can have a greater honor than that."

WHERE A DRY TURNED WET

Italy Agreeable to Hoover Arms Plan

Rome, Aug. 12 (AP)—Italy's government awaits more particulars of President Hoover's speech of acceptance before indicating its impressions. The newspapers received only brief outlines, which they published without comment. It was understood, however, that Italy's attitude has favored disarmament regardless of date, revision and, therefore, of Mr. Hoover implied disarmament as "compensation" for revision. Italy will be pleased once she attends desires to disarm.

Widow Accused in Welfare Aid Probe

Accused of the theft of $300 from the welfare department of the city of Quincy, Mrs. Susan Ivory, 45, a widow of Franklin ave., was arraigned in court today. Mrs. Ivory has been collecting $5 weekly for 91 weeks, and while working under the name of Mrs. Susan Hines, the agency over $700, they allege.

JAPAN IRKED BY HOOVER'S SLAP ON MANCHURIA

Tokio, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Japanese government fails to see how President Hoover's new doctrine of refusal to recognize possession of territory gained by force applies to Japan's position in Manchuria, a foreign office spokesman said today.

The reference occurred in the President's speech of acceptance last night and in governors' circles it was accepted as was Secretary Stimson's speech earlier in the week, as a reference to the Manchurian case.

WANTS NO TITLE THERE

"Japan never will seek title to possession of territory in Manchuria—to use the President's phrase—not to the end of time," said the spokesman. "There are many Occidental powers which, if placed as Japan is regarding Manchuria, would long ago have annexed Manchuria.

"Japan has absolutely no intention of annexation. Many Japanese are even doubting the wisdom of the annexation of Korea, which has been a liability lowering the general economic level of the empire.

"The President's doctrine as he expressed it seems to us wholesome. What we object to is having the antiwar pact constantly poked under our noses with charges that we are violating it.

DENY PACT VIOLATED

"Both the United States and Great Britain signed the Kellogg pact with reservations covering their right to resort to war in self-defense. Therefore they are hardly in a position to deny our right to resort to arms in the defense of interests vital to the well-being of the Empire.

"That is all we have done in Manchuria. The decision as to whether military action constitutes self-defense must lie with the nation directly concerned, and not with world opinion."

The spokesman said Mr. Hoover's speech, like Mr. Stimson's, sought to marshal the administration's achievements in foreign policy as arguments for re-election.

HOOVER FAVORS TREATY CHANGE

Washington, Aug. 12—(INS)—President Hoover favors revision of the Versailles and other "peace" treaties signed at the close of the World War.

This fact, intimated by the President in one short but outspoken sentence of his acceptance speech, was confirmed by his close friends and political advisers today.

Hoover feels, these sources declared, that the "peace treaties brought anything but peace to Europe ad the rest of the world, and also that they have presented formidable obstacles to the political and economic restoration of Europe.

The President indicated the warmth of his feeling on this subject by the statement in his speech that "poisoned springs of political instability lay in the treaties which closed the war. Fears and hates held armaments to double those of before the great conflict."

This was the first authoritative pronouncement on peace treaties by the Hoover administration. Heretofore all officials have been exceedingly cautious in comment on these treaties. Generally they refused to discuss the treaties at all.

Herriot Talks to His Cabinet on Hoover Speech

Paris, Aug. 12 (AP)—President Hoover's speech of acceptance and the New York speech earlier this week by Secretary of State Stimson were understood to be among the matters on which Premier Herriot reported to the cabinet today.

The cabinet devoted most of its time to a study of the whole situation in France and the steps to be taken to protect agricultural interests in the present speculation.

EDITORS SEE HOOVER STILL 'INDEFINITE'

Excerpts from editorials on the Hoover acceptance speech follow:

BROOKLYN EAGLE

Mr. Hoover's attitude on prohibition is still indefinite. It presses down harder on both sides than does his party platform, but he is no less a straddler. His equivocation on this issue is all the more marked coming after his generally candid speech. It mars his whole story and raises doubts about it.

N. Y. EVENING POST

It seems as if a new Hoover were trying to struggle out through that acceptance speech—or, perhaps, the old Hoover for whom so many of us thought we were voting in 1928. There was in it a degree of candor, of definite commitment and of deep feeling such as we have not seen in any speech by the President since he entered the White House.

WORLD-TELEGRAM

President Hoover's acceptance speech interests us as an exceedingly well written and on the whole frank statement of his conservative position. He does not definitely pledge himself or his party to do anything to appease or hasten even revision of the 18th amendment and, of course, he does not pledge himself to any modification of the dry laws excepting change of the amendment.

HARTFORD COURANT

What he says on this contentious issue is like the Republican platform itself, calculated to make some measure of appeal to both the supporters and the opponents of the Eighteenth Amendment. He woes as far as the platform but NO farther.

What he says about desirability of keping the federal and the state governments within their respective orbits is fine, but in pleading for the continuance of such measures as the maternity act he seems to have forgotten the distinctions. His political philosophy is not essentially different from what it was four years ago.

ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

The chief significance of the address is in his admission that his one-time "noble experiment" of prohibition has become an ignoble failure. He seeks to garner the dry vote by an attack on the Democratic position on prohibition, while appealing for the wet vote by endorsing the Democratic position.

CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER

Mr. Hoover goes farther than his party in the direction of repeal. His position is nearer the Democratic than the Republican platform. This can mean, but one thing, the end of the Eighteenth Amendment. Mr. Hoover gives his dry friends a spanking, but insists it hurts him more than it does them.

CLEVELAND NEWS

Not only has he presented the case of the breakdown of the Eighteenth Amendment, but he has offered a remedy for the disgraceful conditions. The stigma of the Chicago struggle has been wiped out. Mr. Hoover very honestly and with the prestige of the executive state records of the "Noble Experiment" and foresees them wanting. He is honest enough to admit it.

JERSEY JOURNAL

As time give the voters more opportunity to reflect upon the fact that both parties and both candidates are pledged to a (prohibition) change and that the Republicans are powerless to win the necessary two thirds support in Congress and the necessary three fourths ratification of the states, it may develop that no only the dries, but also the wets prefer Herbert Hoover.

LEWISTON DAILY SUN

President Hoover has given abundent reason why he ought not to be re-elected—why he is a dangerous man to have at the head of the government. He gives his theories on prohibition as if he were nothing but a professor in college. He doesn't give any evidence that he has at any time made any effort to enforce prohibition. He stands for a false policy of the federal government, a policy that must lead to the destruction of the union.

PORTLAND (ME.) EXPRESS

The President's words are the words of a statesman. He deals with the great questions that confront the nation understandingly and in a manner so that those who hear or read can understand him.

HERE IS HOW PRES. HOOVER STANDS ON PROHIBITION ISSUE

Washington, Aug. 12—The text of the President's declaration on prohibition follows:

"There has arisen a bitter controversy over the control of the liquor traffic. I have always sympathized with the high purpose of the Eighteenth Amendment and I have used every power at my command to make it effective over the entire country. I have hoped it was the final solution of the evils of the liquor traffic against which our people have striven for generations. It was succeeded in great measure in those many communities where the majority sentiment is favorable to it. But in other and increasing number of communities there is a majority sentiment unfavorable to it. Law opposed to majority sentiment create resentment which undermines enforcement and in the end produces degeneration and crime.

AGAINST SALOONS

"Our opponents pledge the members of their party to destroy every vestige of constitutional and effective control of the liquor traffic. That means to open areas the return of the saloon system with its corruption, its moral and social abuse which debauched the home, its deliberate interference with those States and localities to find honest solution to its permeation of political parties, and to passage of legislation which even touched the capital of the nation. The Eighteenth Amendment smashed that regime. As a matter of principle I cannot consent to the return of that system.

"At the same time we must recognize the difficulties which have developed in making the Eighteenth Amendment effective and that grave abuses have grown up. In order to secure the enforcement of the amendment under our dual form of government, the constitutional provision called for concurrent action on one hand by the State and local authorities and on the other by the federal government.

SPREAD OF DISRESPECT

"An increasing number of states and municipalities are refusing adequate cooperation or unwilling to engage in such enforcement. Due to these forces there is in large sections an increase in illegal traffic in liquor. But worse than this there has been in those areas a spread of disrespect not only for this law, but for all law, grave dangers of practical nullification of the Constitution, a degeneration in municipal government and an increase in organized crime and violence. I cannot consent to the continuation of this regime.

SEES SANE SOLUTION

"I refuse to accept either of these destinies, on the one hand to return to the old saloon, with its political and social corruption or on the other to endure the bootlegger and the speakeasy with their abuses and crime. Either is intolerable. These are not the ways out.

"Our objective must be a sane solution, not a blind leap back to old evils. Moreover, such a step backward would result in a chaos of new evils never yet experienced, because the local systems of prohibitions and controls which were developed over generations have been in large degree abandoned under the amendment.

"The Republican platform recommends submission of the question to the States that the people themselves may determine whether they desire a change, but insists that this submission shall propose a constructive and not a destructive change. It does not dictate to the conscience of any member of the party.

"The first duty of the President of the United States is to enforce the laws as they exist. That I shall continue to do to the utmost of my ability. Any other course would be the abrogation of the very guarantees of liberty itself.

"The Constitution gives the President no power or authority with respect to changes in the Constitution itself, and likewise, my countrymen have a right to know my conclusions upon this matter.

"It is my belief that in order to remedy present evils a change is necessary by which we recommend a proper division of initiative and responsibility which the very essence of our Government demands shall exist between the States and local authorities.

"It is my conviction that the nature of this change, and one upon which all reasonable people can find common ground, is that each State shall be given the right to deal with the problem as it may determine, but subject to absolute guarantees in the Constitution of the United States to protect each State from interference and invasion by its neighbors.

"American statesmanship is capable of working out such a solution and making it effective."

With GEORGE UNDERWOOD

It's a Long Lane, Etc. ↑ Rause Mit You, Doctor!
Zane Grey, Outfielder. | When Bob Said Prayer.
Hay to Break the Fall. ↓ Dolly Stark Tells One.

Go Home and Put on Some Clothes, Gals!

IF RABBIT MARANVILLE didn't happen to be the best second baseman in the league and about as sure of his job on the Braves as is President Fuchs, he wouldn't have to worry, for he'd get a job on the Cubs, anyway . . . The Rabbit and Charlie Grimm, who deposed Rogers Hornsby as Chicago manager, are pals . . . Winds of chance blew 'em together and the pair of 'em were seatmates in baseball's School of Hard Knocks . . . The Grimms are a famous family . . . Charlie Grimm, George Grimm, Joe Grimm . . . Gee, how he could "take it" . . . Joe Grimm, we mean, although George also is a glutton for punishment . . . Hee! Haw . . . Back to Charlie Grimm . . . When a Chicago civic organization gave Joe McCarthy a testimonial dinner and silver service, when he was deposed as Chicago manager and Hornsby given the job, the only Chicago player who dared to show up to the banquet was Charlie Grimm . . . And when the camera boys shot 'em Charlie took care to have his picture taken with his arms around McCarthy, just to let Hornsby and the cockeyed world know how he felt about it . . . And now Charlie sits in the driver's seat . . . It's a long lane, etc.

HAVING a MORE or less flagrant attack of the fishin' fever we glanced at a fishin' column where the scribe answered fish queries . . . "Zane Grey uses a rod of hickory and split bamboo. Most anglers prefer split bamboo" . . . Which reminds us of the days when Zane Grey was an outfielder . . . You didn't know the famous author of those incomparable sheet 'em up fiction stories was a former professional baseball player? . . . He used to play the outfield for the old Newark Internationals . . . Zane had a habit of running a fly ball to death. He invariably would race many needless yards after the catch, before slowing down . . . Manager Joe Kelly cured him of it . . . One day he instructed the groundkeeper to stand by the gate on Zane's post and when Zane started for a ball in that vicinity to swing the gate wide open . . . It worked like a charm . . . Zane ran right out of the park . . . P. S. It was a winning run. If he hadn't run out of the park he might still have been an outfielder and never would have written those incomparable yarns.

COMES AN INVITATION from a bunch of celebrated horsemen to join them in a barn dinner on the day of the Hambletonian Stakes . . . "Refreshments of varying degrees of solidity and liquidity will be dispensed and there will be ample hay under foot to break the fall" . . . Whoopee!!! . . . "I enclose also a program of the Grand Circuit meeting which gives full directions for reaching here. Who in hek cares how, or when, you get home?" . . . You simply can't help from lovin' that man! . . . Three loud hoss laffs for Mister Volstead.

WE SEE BY THE PAPERS that a German Olympic judge—Rause mit him!—is in Dutch again . . . One of 'em went blind, you recall, the day Lehtinen, the Finn, repeatedly fouled Ralph Hill, the American, and prevented Uncle Sam from winning a merited 5000-meter victory . . . Another of 'em gave such an outrageous exhibition of officiating in an Olympic water polo game that the Brazilian team attempted to hang his hide on the side of the pool and the gendarmes had to be called in to restrain them . . . This time a German judge, Dr. Lee Donath, covers his eyes and shrieks "Naughty! Naughty!" over the lack of bathing suits onworn by George Coleman and Jane Faunts and chases the two Yankee mermaids back to the dressing room to put on some clothes.

SHUCKS, DOCTOR! The gals only were showing you what Venus looked like when she emerged from the sea foam . . . Give us fellers a chanct, Doc, will yuh? . . . Gals like Georgia and Jane sort of rest the eyes . . . But if you want to SEE something, Doc, why, come to Boston and walk down Tremont st, on a sunny day. . . O-o-o-o-o-o! . . . Also Whoops, Mideah! There's a ring around the moon! . . . As Tex Rickard would say, "You never seed anything like it" . . . Why, on a sunny day on Tremont st., Doc, you have to rub your eyes—no, not to get the dust out of 'em—to make sure you're not in the front row at the Old Howard . . . The Gran'mas of today—give the burlesque queens lessons in limb exposures . . . Now stop right there! . . . Stop right there!

RECKON WE'LL have to take this opportunity of correcting an impression that our old pal, Fred Lieb, of the N. Y. Evening Post, and about the best baseball writer in the country, with due apologies to the rest of the gang, had regarding the famous Nap Rucker-Bob Bescher incident . . . In commenting upon Harris' "robbing" Bridges of a near no hit game recently, Fred recalled the hit by Bescher which turned Nap's dream into a nightmare . . . There were two out and two straight strikes on Bescher in the ninth inning, and Rucker had not allowed a man to get to first base . . . When Rucker was right on the threshold of a no hit, no man reach first game, Bescher smacked a clean single past second . . . Lieb quotes us as saying that Bob told us he didn't try to hit the ball . . . What Bescher really did tell us, Freddie was . . . "I hadn't been able to hit Rucker all season. He had me bitin' like a sucker on my first two trips to the platter in this game. When I came up the third time I just said a prayer, shut my eyes and swung blind!" . . . Bob never said he didn't try to hit that ball, Freddie, but no one was more surprised than Bob when the drive went zooming into the outfield for the hit that robbed Rucker of a seat in the Hall of Fame . . . But Nap pitched at least one other no hit game anyway . . . We once saw him strike out 16 Braves . . . But now we're getting pussonal.

HERE'S ONE UMPIRE DOLLY STARK tells . . . Comorosky of the Pirates jammed himself up against the wall in such a way in a recent game that it couldn't be seen whether he made the catch of Hughie Crits's long drive. Stark and Rigler called Crits out, but the Giants protested and Umpire Magerkurth was appealed to. Magerkurth called Comorosky over to him and asked him if he had caught the ball fairly. When Comorosky said he had Magerkurth waved Critz out.'

"Well I'll be durned!" yelped Critz.

"What would you have said, Hughie, if you had been Comorosky?" grinned Stark. Hughie scratched his head and replied:

"Well, Mister Stark, I'm afraid I would have said just what he said—the blankety-blank liar!"

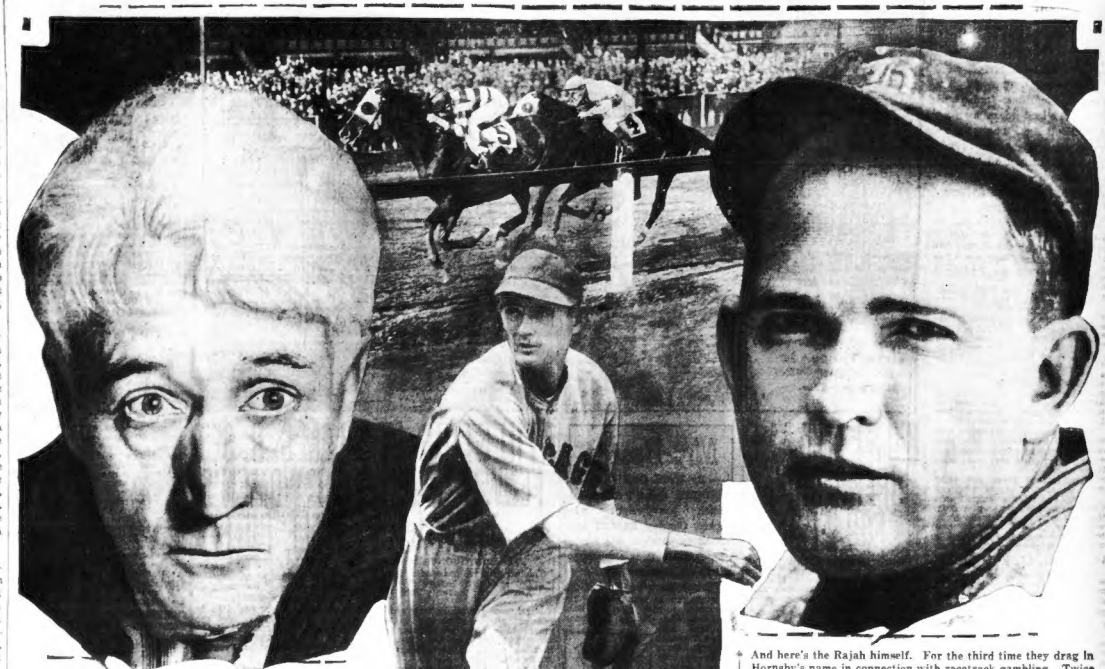
Has Racing Caused a "Gentlemen's Agreement" to Bar Hornsby?



Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis will turn those steady eyes on Guy Bush and other Cubs players in an investigation of charges that the ball players are playing the horses to the detriment of their diamond profession.

And here's the Rajah himself. For the third time they drag In Hornsby's name in connection with racetrack gambling. Twice before Rogers went to bat against bookies' charges, and hit safely both times. He comes up again this inning, and his batting eye is as good as ever, unless it's an inside high one.

Here's Guy Bush, who flung the Cubs into first place by beating the Pirates, and who is charged with taking a fling at the ponies, too. But Bush says that's just so much Pittsburgh smoke.

260 BOATS IN CORINTHIAN OPENER

Marblehead, Aug. 12—Corinthian Yacht Club's second race of classic race week here is the big event for today with the Triangle team match for the Cleghorn cup a feature.

There were 260 boats in the first race of the Corinthian series. Owing to the lack of wind starts were postponed 50 minutes for yachts sailing the inside course.

The feature of the classic was in the 22 square meter class, when 22 seconds separated Ded II, owned by E. C. Lincoln of the Hingham Yacht Club and the Kye Pol, the 5th boat in the class. The finish was as follows:

Dodo II, E. C. Lincoln, Hingham, 2:11:12
Gypsy II, R. A. Algers, Jr., Det., 2:11:20
Gorinna, F. V. Bullinch, Hingham, 2:12:25
Prateh, F. W. Weisgerber, Det., 2:12:29
Kye Pol, R. W. Partridge, Hingham 2:13:34

In the eight-meter class Clifford Smith skipped his Egret to victory over W. F. Adrich's Armida by two minutes and 25 seconds.

In class R Bonnie Prince, sailed by J. L. Stuart, Jr., had a walkaway, winning by six minutes over Charlie Liffler's Taja.

In the S class Jim Rothwell's Rowena edged W. E. Poor's Woodcock by 46 seconds.

Sam Wakeman piloted his Moonsoon II to the finishing line to one minute and 19 seconds lead over A. E. Chase's Michi with Judge Morton's Piccharot a close third.

Donnellan Brothers' Sachem trimmed Andy Alcardi's Bambino in a closely contested race of the Indian class.

Michigan to Play Cornell in 1933

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 12 (INS)—Romeyn Berry, graduate manager of athletics at Cornell University, today confirmed the rearrangement of the 1933 football schedule with Michigan replacing Princeton. The Orange and Black will resume grid relations with Cornell in 1934.

The 1932 schedule follows:

Sept. 24, University of Buffalo at Ithaca; Oct. 1, Niagara University at Ithaca; Oct. 8, University of Richmond at Ithaca; Oct. 15, Princeton at Princeton; Oct. 29, Columbia at Baker Field, N. Y.; Nov. 5, Albright at Ithaca; Nov. 12, Dartmouth at Ithaca, and Nov. 24, Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.

260 BOATS IN RINGER BEATS MACHINES FOR $10,000

Fort Erie, Ont., Aug. 12 (AP)—Investigation of the running of an alleged "ringer" at the Fort Erie track last week had brought threat of suspension to four men today.

The "ringer," running under the name of Janie G., won the fourth race at Fort Erie last Saturday and paid $28.20 for $2 in the mutuels.

After an investigation, D. S. Gillies, Canadian Racing Association steward at Fore Erie, said T. O. Webber, Montreal, owner of Janie G; J. S. Flynn, trainer, and Harry Williams and George Kesteringer had been recommended to the C. R. A. for suspension.

BETTORS WIN $10,000

Bettors are said to have won more than $10,000 on the race. One of them, it was said, demanded Canadian currency for his winnings, $7600, declining a check, and then disappeared.

The real Janie G is a four-year-old bay mare by Sun Briar out of Mary Agnes S, bred by Willis Sharpe Kilmer. She had failed to win a race in three years of racing.

On Monday track officials became suspicious of the result of the race and ordered the winner impounded. An investigation revealed the horse was not Janie G.

So What?

—By JOE MOONEY—

As they say out in Chicago, the National League standing today is Cubs win, Pirates place and Braves show.

When the catcher calls the pitcher into conference they don't talk about the batter. They talk about Raggedy Pants in the third at Arlington.

Mixing race horses and ball players has gone far enough. If it goes any further Bill McKechnie will have to shoot Art Shires and Bob Worthington.

Right now Rogers Hornsby would like to go in a managerial claiming race.

In the American League it looks like the Yankees will win going away.

The Red Sox also ran.

In this race, at least, they couldn't win with Earl Sande up.

WINTHROP GOLF COUNTRY CLUB STAR EQUALS COURSE RECORD

North Scituate, Aug. 12—After taking a six on the 14th hole, Norman E. Kellenberger of Winthrop staged the most sensational finish ever carded here to win the two-day Hatherly Country Club invitation with a 67 and at the same equal the competitive record of the course.

Going to the 18th hole, Kellenberger was two over par, after going out in 34, even par and being one under going to the 14th, where he hooked two out of bounds and wound up with a six.

SHORT AT 18TH

He was just short of the 18th green with an iron from the tee and chipped in for a deuce. He played two fine shots to the 17th green and dropped his putt for another birdie. And then came up with his third consecutive birdie at the home hole for a 33 for the inward round and a 67.

Although all of the outstanding golfers have played in Hatherly tournaments, none has ever played the last three holes in eight shots and by so doing Norman «Kellanberger clearly demonstrated that he was entitled to the cut the M. G. A. gave his handicap last Tuesday.

QUIMET FINDS PACE FAST

Francis Ouimet, the national amateur and Massachusetts open champion, played yesterday afternoon with James Curry, Harry Kay and Wm. Cubb, but the Bay State scratch player was unable to hold the pace set by Kellenberger. Francis was out in 39, but he reeded 36 to get home for a 71.

John Mullin, Long Meadow, turned in a 69 yesterday and he is the runner up to Kellenberger, although he may be displaced today, for many of the leader Massachusetts golfers are in action.

Judging from the caliber of the general committee, the coming Walker Cup International matches at The Country Club Sept. 1st and 2d will eclipse all previous United States and British team matches.

Harold W. Pierce, former president of the Massachusetts Golf Association, will be the chairman of the general committee, while Ellery W. Rogers will act as secretary. Chairman Pierce will be assisted by Jose C. Harris, Herbert Jaques, the New England delegate of the United States Golf Association, Frank A. Reece and James W. Wheeler, former chairman of the golf committee at The Country.

Francis H. Parks will be chairman of the Entrance and Program committee with John Heard as vice-chairman. Housing and transportation will be under the direction of Chairman Elewall Bent with C. Cameron Patterson as vice-chairman.

Communications will be handled by Charles B. Batch who will have Henry W. Monot as his vice-chairman. Walter A. Carl is chairman of the press and publicity committee, with Robert S. Weeks as his assistant. Gerald Henderson and Talbot C. Chase, president of the M. G. A. will look after the gallery and the ticket, badge and information committee is under Richard S. Townsend and G. Sterer Baldwin.

The parking troubles and the detailing of the police will be up to Theodore C. Brewer, Jr. and Charles F. Rowley.

Landis Probe May Reveal "Inside" of Hornsby Case

Pittsburgh, Aug. 12 (AP)—K. M. Landis, high commissioner of major league baseball, returned to Chicago last night after spending the day talking with members of the Cub team and making inquiries elsewhere.

It was reported he was seeking information regarding charges that members of the Cub team gambled on horse races while Rogers Hornsby was manager.

Landis refused to confirm or deny the report.

"Judge for yourself," he told newspapermen. "When there is anything to say, I'll make the announcement."

Bush Denies Making Wagers on Horses

By WAYNE K. OTTO

Pittsburgh, Aug. 12 (US)—Charley Grimm, manager of the Chicago Cubs, today interpreted insinuations that the Cubs were "gambling on horse races during Hornsby's regime' as more or less of a campaign of propaganda inspired for purposes of breaking down the team's morale.

He suggested in support of this interpretation that no player can be disciplined merely for betting on horse races, so far as the jurisdiction of organized baseball is concerned.

Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis would neither affirm or deny the reports that he was "checking up" on the gambling activities of certain of the Cub players, supposedly those of Guy Bush.

Bush protested the charges that he had bet on the horses.

"I don't know a thing about horses nor do I know anything about betting them. Why, I've only been to a track once or twice and those times were on off-days."

Landis refused to offer any "lead" to his interviewers that might provide a reason for his visit here. He said he had not talked to Bush and Bush said he had no talked to the Commissioner.

Manager Grimm was somewhat angered at reports that Bush might be ordered back to Chicago.

"He's going to St. Louis and he'll pitch the opening game against the Cards on Saturday," Grimm said with some feeling, "I know Bush never did any gambling and you can say so for me."

Rumor Hornsby Eased Out for Good of Game

By RAY HELGESEN

The inside of "The Strange Case of Rogers Hornsby," may yet be spread before a fanatic baseball public.

In Pittsburgh, Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of baseball, mysterious as ever, refuses to deny that he is there to investigate reports of extensive horse race gambling by the Cubs.

In New York, John A. Heydler, president of the National League, rushes into print with a denial that Rogers Hornsby has been eased out of baseball and barred "for the good of the game."

In Chicago, William Veeck, president of the Cubs, knocks over women and children in his haste to get to a phone and deny that he has recalled Guy Bush, Cubs' star pitcher, to question him about horse race gambling.

In Boston, Judge Emil Fuchs, president of the Braves, dignified and cautious, refuses to admit that he has ever discussed the alleged barring of Rogers Hornsby "for the good of the game" or for any other reason.

FIRE WHERE THERE'S SMOKE

Yet, where there's smoke there must be fire. There always has been.

And there are plenty of other straws in the baseball wind that indicate that, up to date, only the surface of the Hornsby ouster has been scratched.

Though Hornsby's name has not yet been connected with the present investigation, it will be. If Landis proves what he is said to expect to prove he will say plenty and he will not protect Hornsby. Incidentally, and just between you

WANTS NEW MEN FOR BIG FLAG DRIVE

By JOE CASHMAN

Philadelphia, Aug. 12—The acquisition of Buck Jordan and Dutch Holland doesn't mean that the Braves scouts have ceased scouring the minors looking for new talent to keep the club in the pennant hunt, Manager Bill McKechnie informed the writer this morning.

On the contrary, Pilot Bill revealed, several more new players are being sought and if they are found and money can buy them Judge Fuchs will not hesitate to bring them in.

"I wanted a new first sacker and another outfielder and I have been given them, but that doesn't fully satisfy my demands," McKechnie stated. "I could use still another outfielder, a new infielder and, like every manager, I can always find room for good battery material.

SCOUTS ARE BUSY

"There are no more deals on the fire now, but one may be cooked up at any moment. The scouts have been instructed not to come home empty handed and, being all home-loving men, they aren't likely to waste much time looking for what they have been sent after.

"I'm certain there are some players in the clubs who can help us and I know Judge Fuchs will let nothing deter him from getting anybody the ivory hunters okay.

"I don't concede that there is a better team in the circuit than mine is today. Give us a few new players superior to some of our present regulars and we would be the best bet to win.

"So you may be sure we'll get that added strength if it's humanly possible."

McKechnie also admitted that Holland was secured because he was rated by the ivory hunters as the best minor league outfielder in the country. Carnegie of Buffalo, the most highly publicized flycatcher in the bushes, was among those considered before Holland was chosen.

HOLLAND RATED BEST

The peaky Phils having shown a decided likeness for speed and curve ball pitching as supplied by Bobby Brown and Fred Frankhouse in the first game of the series here, McKechnie will try to poison them with a slow ball diet as prepared and served by Harry "Socks" Seibold in the second game this P. M.

Boston fans have severe attacks of palpitation of the heart, cold feet and their nerves go shooting whenever "Socks" goes to the mound at the Wigwam, for not more than twice this season has he turned in a meritorious performance there.

SOCKS O. K. IN PHILLY

They may yest easy today, though if Harry is as effective as usual in the local orchard. Almost every other pitcher in the loop fears the native bamboo and above all other parks but the ancient right hander of the Tribe, for some reason or other, seems to fare best when he fails everywhere else.

His last effort in Quakerville was a masterpiece. He blanked the Phils with four hits and if you don't think that's a miracle you've never seen this miniature ballpark.

The opening game was over almost as soon as it started. The Phils pounded Bobby Brown's speed ball for five hits and four runs in the very first frame and that was more than enough to enable them to snap their six-game losing streak as Ray Benge, who found for nine safeties, permitted only two runs.

The Cubs whipped the Pirates to take the lead and the Braves are now only 2½ games off the attack. So if the Warriors win today and the Cubs lose while the Pirates are idle, they'll only be 2½ games away.

ROSLINDALE OPENS DRIVE FOR FLAG

Bitterly disappointed at losing two games to St. Thomas for the first half championship of the City League, Roslindale's baseball nine plans to knock off all opposition from here to the finish of the second half campaign.

Manager George Walker said as much today. He's got his team all primed to make it a runaway in the second half fight and they'll start tonight on St. Marks, which pays a visit to Healey Field, Roslindale.

BILL BARRETT ON HILL

Bill Barrett will be on the hill for Roslindale against Ray Finnegan's hustlers. Barrett, even though he is an ex big leaguer, causes no fear for the Dorchester Saints.

St. Catherine's, up on top, pays a visit to the Mulvey Club at Marcella st. and the Charlestown Saints must keep playing high-class ball, for the Mulveys are the upsetters of the loop.

In a third game Crawfords play the Star of Sea nine at East Boston.

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

ISIDORE GASTANAGA, Spanish heavyweight who knocked Charley Retzlaff over with three punches, has agreed to meet some first class opponent at an Argonne A. A. show at Fenway Park on August 23.

Gastanagan is managed by Joe Woodman, former pilot of Sam Langford, and George Lawrence Woodman a paving in New York which started him down the fistic trail.

The last time I saw the King he was acting as a waiter at Jack Sharkey's camp at Orangeburg, N. Y., handing out beer to camp followers. He told me he also had a $25 a week job in the circulation department of a New York newspaper. He didn't have a dime to show for his years in the ring.

GASTANAGA WILL be hailed as a new Firpo as long as he is able to tip over the opposition with his mighty punch.

The Spaniard will get the acid test if Jimmy Johnston or Humbert J. Fuzzy, is successful in matching him with Ernie Schaaf. Both promoters are seeking this bout.

CHICAGO GETS the Schaaf-Baer bout. Nate Lewis will drop this tussle in at the Chicago Stadium on August 30. With Andy Callahan of Lawrence in the semi-final. Maybe with Frankie Petrolle as an opponent.

EDDIE MACK IS going to send Nap Proulx of Taunton against Manny Davis, a middleweight who has knocked to his credit over Leo Larivee, at an Argonne A. A. show at Fenway Park on next Tuesday night. Proulx recently gave Ad Zachow, New England middleweight champion, a furious battle over the ten-round route. One judge voted for Proulx. If the Taunton youth licks Davis he will naturally demand a return shot at Zachow.

ATHLETICS AT FENWAY PARK TODAY

By JOE MOONEY

The oft beaten, but undismayed Red Sox open their home stay with the Athletics at Fenway Park today.

Back from a Western tour which opened auspiciously but which closed in a blaze of defeats, the much humbled Hose are still in a hustling mood, to quote Manager Marty McManus.

The bland refusal on the part of the Fenway Park team to accept such discouraging facts as the record books show is a cheering and heroic attitude indeed.

Our Sox have won only 17 games out of 62 played since Joe Mackmen, Browns, Tigers, White Sox and Indians who will come to Boston in a fortnight or so.

SOX DON'T FEAR A's

To open the home stay with the Philadelphians, in view of the results with that club so far, would strike terror into the hearts of an ordinary club, but not the extraordinary McManusmen.

It can't be worse, as Manager McManus philosophically figures, than the late lamented series the Sox had with Washington in which they failed to take a single victory.

An then again, the Sox may hope for as good a break as they got against the White Sox. Beating the Chicago club three days running was a fine tonic to palates jaded by recurring defeats.

A carry-over of the Chicago seige gave them a slight edge over the Browns for a day, but then the Sox fell back into their old routine, dropping three straight to the Browns and four straight to the Indians in Cleveland.

Johnson is also a member of the arnica squad as the Sox limp into the home stay. The seating capacity in the American League parks is 369,000. Stella Walsh got what was coming to her, a scholarship in a Polish school, which will be her reason for going to that country for the first time since she was six months old .... The Demaree of the Cubs is not relation to the Demaree of the Giants .... There are more Moores than any other family in baseball .... All the St. Louis Browns except Goslin, Blaeholder and Oscar Melillo are up for sale .... How the Senators are howling about that Coffman they got for Fischer and $3 grand .... Coffman can't pitch up an alley for Walter Johnson .... The Cardinals, despite everything, are declaring themselves in .... because just two years today they were 12 games in arrears ....and look what happened....

Facts You Might've Missed

If Les Sweetland, ex-Cubs and Phillies southpaw, can make good with Jersey City, there's a job waiting for him with the Dodgers .... Gene Moore got back with the Reds when Harrisburg took Bruce Caldwell .... Total seating capacity in the American League parks is 369,000 .... Stella Walsh got what was coming to her, a scholarship in a Polish school, which will be her reason for going to that country for the first time since she was six months old .... The Demaree of the Cubs is not relation to the Demaree of the Giants .... There are more Moores than any other family in baseball .... SALEM C. C. SET FOR WOMEN'S TITLE GOLF

By BILL GRIMES

Under the direction of Wilfred R. Shrigley, general chairman of the tournament committee, the Salem Country Club has already completed preparations for the 36th women's amateur golf championship of the United States which will be played at Peabody next month.

All the women's nationals will be the first major championship ever held at the Salem Country club and Chairman Shrigley and his fellow committeemen are particularly anxious to do a thorough job. Chairman Shrigley appointed Francis Enos to take charge of the grounds; J. Morgan Davis, the clubhouse; Oscar J. Ives, dress; Daniel Measures, parking; Hulings Brown, caddies; Richard D. Seaman, finance; Warner H. Bay, publicity; Edward M. Winslow, gallery; Mrs. Herbert H. Hicks, transportation, and Mrs. Walter G. Phippen, entertainment.

SALEM CLUB HOST

Although the championship will not start until Monday, Sept. 26, the Salem Country Club will be open for practice rounds from Thursday through Sunday.

Mrs. Walter G. Phippen has arranged for two outings for the contestants. On Saturday night before the championship, there will be a clambake at the North Shore Gardens during which the Salem Golf Association of Massachusetts will be the host. Then a tour of the North Shore is listed during which visits will be paid the estates of Miss Harriot and Miss Margaret Curtis, two former Women's National titleholders, Dr. and Mrs. J. Henry Lancashire and Mr. and Mrs. Carl P. Dennett.

The Salem Country Club will have the non qualifiers as its guests on Monday evening for a dinner in the clubhouse.

DIDRIKSON GIRL NATURAL ATHLETE

By Mildred "Babe" Didrikson
An Interview with Frank Menke.

Los Angeles, Aug. 12 (INS)—I wouldn't be much help with advice to any girl trying to get along in athletics because I don't know myself how it happens that I do things on the field. I just go out and do them.

I never do any planning in advance and when the contest is done I'm doing my thinking only about what is next.

But maybe I could be a little help to a girl who is going in for basketball and wants to be a forward. The idea in that game is to "get the ball." Girls should remember that points decide who wins or loses, that you score points only with the ball and that if you have the ball the other side can't be scoring with it and you can. Get the ball.

BABE OFF FOR DALLAS

It was late in the winter of 1930 when our Beaumont team was playing in Houston that Col. M. J. McCombes of Dallas happened to drop around and he saw me playing forward and I had an extra good night and after the game the Colonel asked me if I would like to go to Dallas and work for his insurance concern and play on his basketball team, the Golden Cyclones, and I said fine, because the Colonel also said that he would coach me and arrange it for me to get into the Southern Association of the Amateur Athletic Union and in this way I could go in for all the championships I cared to at the next A. A. U. meet for girls.

So I went to Dallas and started to work for the insurance company after the 1930 school term had finished and I was with the Golden Cyclones during the 1930-31 season and we had a great year. We won the Dallas City title, the county title, the Texas title, the Southern title and finished up by winning the national championship.

DID EXTRA WORK

The Colonel didn't want to rush me along very fast on track and field sports. But when he wasn't around I was doing some chores on my own.

When I was throwing the javelin for distance time I'd practice how to throw the shot. So I picked it up and threw it as far the colonel got dizzy measuring.

STUCK TO FIELD EVENTS

The colonel let me loose for the track and field events of the 1930 season and I'll tell the world I put the shotput, the javelin, the baseball throw, the running broad jump and the high jump, but I did not go in for any running.

Only once during my entire athletic career has the urge been on to admit that I was a little bit tired. That was during the national A. A. U. meet for girls at Chicago when I went there representing Dallas and I entered in each of the eight events.

I was the Dallas one man track and field team. That meant I had to go up against a team of from six to 18 girls from all other cities and try, all by myself, to win more points and more points than anybody else.

Well, I won six championships in the eight and hung up six new records for them, but I was so shook-up the chance at the other two titles because, as I said, I was a little bit weary.

WANTED TO RACE STELLA

What I wanted most of all was a crack at Stella Walsh. She is regarded as the greatest 100 and 200 meter runner in the world. Now that's the kind of opposition. I like—world's champions and all that. I'm gladly game to meet everything else in the Olympics to take a whirl with Stella.

I'm now a girl ought to hold her athletic ability until she is 23 or 24 and, if I can do that, maybe I'll be a right good athlete for the Olympics of 1936, and be at my best, and really turn in some good records.

I've just been warming up so far.

THE END.

Sarazen Refuses Favors

GENE SARAZEN

By DAVID J. WALSH

New York, Aug. 12 (INS)—Gene Sarazen, joint holder of the American and British open championships, and greatest of golfers since Jones, will not accept a place as a qualifier for the Professional Golfers' Association championship at St. Paul if as a result, a rightful and legitimate qualifier is forced out.

He will not appear in the tournament at all if his nomination has the slightest suggestion of commercialism. He will not, in fact, be a party to any arrangement that proposes to let him into the championship proper as a favorite.

And he will give the P. G. A. committee just 24 hours to make up its mind.

Thus did Sarazen declare himself on the current controversy in golf.

JUST MISSED QUALIFYING

He referred to the hectic bouts that featured the local qualifying round of the P. G. A. event Wednesday in which he finished in a tie for the last qualifying place accepted for the play-off, apparently qualified and later discovered that earlier scratches having reconsidered he was outside the pale by one place.

As for Charley Lacey, assistant pro at Siwanoy Club, who also qualified, announced his withdrawal and later changed his mind, Sarazen says a chance is a chance it again. Take the word of Sarazen, the boss, Charley Lacey, the assistant, is going to the champion ship.

"Under no circumstances will I accept Lacey's place," the champion added, meaningly. "And under few circumstances will I accept anybody else's."

A LOT AT STAKE

"This means a lot to me," he explained. "No other man, except Jones, has held the British and American open championships the same year. No man in history has made a clean sweep of the British, American and P. G. A. events and naturally I'd like to be the first to do it.

"But"—he paused for emphasis —"I'd rather lose $50,000 than go into a tournament where my eligibility is in the slightest question. I wouldn't have any heart for it, under those circumstances. I'd feel I didn't belong and, feeling that way, I'd want to be knocked off in the first round."

LOW DOWN ON HORNSBY MAY BE REVEALED

and me, there is no reason why he should. Hornsby has always been able to protect himself and ready to. He's that kind of a guy.

Take it any way you want, the Landis probe, in view of what is common knowledge of Hornsby's inclinations, is bound to shed some light on just why the big fellow was tossed overboard by a league that needs color, caliber and class such as his worst enemies won't deny are Hornsby's.

Four years ago Rogers came within an ace of getting what he got last week from the National League.

RAJ WAS IN BETTING JAM

At that time Hornsby was accused of welching on a little matter of $40,000 which a bookie, Frank Moore, Kentucky racing commissioner, claimed he owed him.

Hornsby beat the charge in court. He is said to have had two or three possible lines of defense but on his lawyers' advice, fought the case on the basis that interstate betting was illegal. Moore had no standing in court.

Hornsby's real defense would not give him any the best of it from a publicity angle but accepted his lawyers' advice and went through with it on that basis.

Later he is said to have been sorry that he did not take a chance and spread the facts of the case on the court record. These facts, according to his friends, would have shown him the victim of a double-cross and put him in a better light with the fans as well as the magnates. In fact, it is said in Chicago that William Wrigley insisted upon a complete investigation of the case and was satisfied that Hornsby was right before he acted him.

HORNSBY WON OUT

However, the National League is said to have voted on whether or not to bar him at that time and Hornsby won out through influence of Wrigley's insistence that the facts proved Hornsby right.

Later in September, 1928, both Hornsby and John McGraw were alleged to have participated in betting on horse races at Arlington Park.

They beat the charge which had been brought by Clark Griffith, but the unfortunate publicity caused the National League to issue a warning to the effect that race betting would not be tolerated in the future. In some cases even small penalties were meted out but members were barred. Which has made the Hyder organization a powerful force in baseball, and that's you can gamble on bridge, too, but perhaps the club owners never thought of that.

RAJ SAYS WHAT HE THINKS

Hornsby is said to have refused to sign a written statement that he would never again bet on the races during the baseball season but promised verbally to lay off the nags.

Whether he did or not I do not know, but knowing the character of the man I'd figure he would consider himself insulted if asked to sign such a statement. Raj is very probably, tell whoever suggested it to go to hell.

Which is one of his troubles.

He always says exactly what he thinks, or as close to it as his choice of words permits. Like Stoneham, of the Giants, or Mr. Breaden, of the Cards, both former employers.

But it's a cinch, that he didn't slay off the horses entirely.

In fact, one of the charges that may come up in the present investigation is that he took younger ball players on the club to the track to lay his bets and that they later became betting addicts because of that association.

VEECK NOT TALKATIVE

And it is not unlikely that that is as good a reason as any for President Veeck's sudden action removing him from the Cubs last week. Certainly it is something that Veeck doesn't want to talk about.

"Hornsby is too dictatorial; we don't want another John McGraw."

That's the reason Veeck gave and you can have it.

The day hasn't come when a ball club or any other $5,000,000 business organization gets rid of its key man simply because he wears his hat at the wrong angle or wears a red tie once a week.

And another strange angle to this strangest of baseball dramas is the speed with which the Cubs rushed to sign up their managers to new contracts when it was suggested that Hornsby's winning record would make him a cinch for their clubs.

The St. Louis Browns, the White Sox and the Phils all gave their managers new contracts immediately it was suggested that one of these clubs was a good spot for the winning Hornsby. The Giants, about which there is plenty of argument these days, haven't yet been stampeded into the same action. But then you know what Stoneham thinks of Hornsby. And what Hornsby thinks of Stoneham.

THIS IS LIFE

NUDIST COLONY DOOMED BECAUSE NO BUYING OF NOVELTIES IS NEEDED

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

THE OTHER DAY ON OUR BEACH a woman went into the water dressed in such a way as to attract an undue amount of attention. The ordinary business of a bathing beach in August stopped altogether. People clustered together to look her over and talk about her. If there had been a policeman there he should have run her in as a source of scandal.

PROF. ROGERS

She was wearing a full fashioned suit with sleeves and sailor collar, long full skirt, generous bloomers sagging below the knee, black lisle stockings hoisted high and one of those old-fashioned bathing hats that look like a sweeping cap or the kind of headgear a Doctor of Civil Law wears at Oxford.

In the most careful use of the word she was indecent.

That is, she was wearing clothes that are not suitable for the beach, that violate current notions of propriety, that attract undesirable attention because they are, in the literal sense of the word, not proper.

Contrary to the opinions of many worthy people, indecency has nothing to do with the amount of flesh exposed by a bathing suit. It has to do with the amount of flesh exposed relative to the amount of exposure prevailing among the majority. The idea exists solely with reference to prevailing customs. Ten years ago the sunback suit would have been indecent on an American beach. Today no one thinks twice about it. Today the masculine fashion of omitting the upper part of the bathing suit—a custom which has been common in Europe for years and which for youngsters at least, used to be far more common than it is today—is being crusaded against as indecent. My guess is that within a few years that fashion will be as common for men as the sunback suit is for the women of today.

Fashion Is Hard to Jar Loose Once Set

Cycles in fashions and decency move slowly and take a long time to go the full circle. Once a fashion is established it takes a long time to disestablish it. For that reason I doubt whether we shall see a return to the pre-war standards in beach clothing for a good many years. And our present fashions will probably go further in the direction in which they are tending, before they "reform"—if that is the word we want.

Fashions have a habit of being imported from Europe where they are invented by ingenious experts for wealthy and fashionable people who want novelties. Americans abroad see them, like them, try them and bring them home to make their friends envious. Astute manufacturers begin importing them and, presently, manufacturing them. They are advertised in the expensive magazines edited for the well-to-do. The more "exclusive" resorts, particularly the winter resorts, begin to feature them.

Pretty soon the popular price manufacturers begin making them and advertising them in the newspapers. New York begins to go for them in a big way. For a year or two they are hard to get in Boston and other cities, because, we are told, "there is no demand." A couple of years after they are the accepted thing in New York they reach the rest of the country. Then they reach inexpensive stores almost indistinguishable in cut and color, design and material from the expensive imports. And the following summer they burst forth on the public beach. Everyone has them. The fashion is established and will not be changed.

The guardians of our public beaches, as the early summer despatches so strenuously testified, no longer try to regulate bathing dresses which would have been forbidden a few years ago. The women have conquered. It will be the men's turn next.

Since all this is true there is a rich laugh in the reports from the Olympic Games that a German judge of the diving events ordered two American girl divers to change their swimming suits for more modest garb. It is to laugh! For a generation the Germans have led the way in Europe to nudity. The one-piece suit for women and the mere wisp of bathing trunks for men has been absolutely regulation beach costume at the German beaches and lakes.

Nudist Move Born in Germany

Not only that but the Nudist movement, which is exercising our newspapers to such an extent, originated in Germany and has gone to extraordinary lengths. The Germans have had a splendid reputation for minding their own business in these matters and in granting the demands of health and ease over the censorship of propriety. The Germans taught us how to dress for the water.

And now it is a German who, out of some curious racial or national complex of his own, bans the suits which have come to be a matter of course even here in the East, let alone in the more liberal West. He will be getting worried about track pants next!

It will be interesting to see whether Nudism will survive the publicity it is receiving. My guess is that it will not last. There are several reasons militating against it. In the first place, over in Germany and abroad the Nudists go away by themselves in colonies. They own their property, put up fences around it, keep the public out and go about their own business in their own way. Our casual Americans in their off-hand way are just as likely to try to go nudist anywhere it occurs to them to take off their clothes. Then they squawk because the neighbors object, the prurient and curious disturb them, and the police have, perforce, to take a hand.

Nuts Ruin Third Party Attempts

Secondly, we have a large floating population of nuts, the "lunatic fringe" of Theodore Roosevelt's characterization, who can be counted on to ruin every movement they take up. They ruined the little theater movement in this country; they ruin the summer art schools; they ruin the sober attempts at a third political party; they will—mark my words!—ruin whatever good there may be in the idea of Nudism and make out of it merely a grotesque and unholy show.

Third our American newspapers, who conceive it their business to furnish not only news but entertainment, will smother the movement in publicity. And lastly, Nudism will fail because it does not involve buying pretty novelties in clothing. We may yet see the brassiere-and-trunks bathing suit for women, because that fashion will involve buying novelties and will be backed by high pressure advertising. But a Nudist can't buy anything, except perhaps citronella, and there is nothing to advertize, except perhaps barbed wire, so I look to see the Nudist movement perish dismally—like tree sitting.

But I do hope the Olympic Association will put up a statue in honor of that German judge. Honi soit qui mal y pense!

Lynn's 6-Cent Dole Meal Is Held Inadequate

HEALTH CHIEFS WANT MILK INCLUDED

Menu Submitted to Mayor Manning Also Shy on Vitamin C Requirements

The Lynn dietetic commission's menu for Lynn residents receiving welfare aid was held inadequate by health officials today.

The menu, a first draft for trial use, was submitted to Mayor J. Fred Manning through Dr. George W. Maywood, director of the Greater Lynn Community [illegible] yesterday.

FRUITS LACKING

The diet will be presented to the welfare board for consideration next [illegible]. The dietetic [illegible] estimated that $1.20 [illegible] feed one person for one week [illegible]

Dry Leader Sees New Hoover Stand as Peril to Party

Dissatisfaction over President Hoover's plan for scrapping the Eighteenth Amendment which he once styled the noble experiment was expressed today by [illegible] Massachusetts.

By Arthur J. Davis, State superintendent of the Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League, it was even declared that:

"In my opinion, the position taken by Mr. Hoover in his speech of acceptance has greatly lessened his chance of re-election in November."

Davis charged President Hoover with losing sight of the fact that much of the social and political corruption which he deplores is directly chargeable to the great brewery and distillery interests rather than to the [illegible]

"HE'S VAGUE AS PLATFORM"

"The position of Mr. Hoover," said Davis, "is entirely consistent with the platform of his party and in many respects quite as vague and indefinite.

"Many hoped that the President would explain just how, with the liquor traffic legalized at least in some of the States, he thinks it possible for the Federal Government to enforce the proposed 'absolute guarantee in the Constitution of the United States to protect each State from interference and invasion by its neighbors.'

"The guarantees the President speaks of, however, would be little more than scraps of paper.

"The President seems to have lost sight of the fact that much of the social and political corruption which he deplores and which he attributes to the salon system was directly chargeable to the great brewery and distillery interests rather than to the corner saloon.

SEES HIS DEFEAT

"The President's naive assumption that his propsed constitutional guarantees will be respected by brewers and distillers is not very convincing to those who are familiar with the inherent lawlessness of the liquor trafic.

"In my opinion the postion taken by Mr. Hoover has greatly lessened his chance of reelection in November."

Thomas Nixon [illegible] address.

"His position, while not satisfactory to the drys, is very much better than that of the Democratic platform. We are assured that he will make every effort to enforce the law so long as it is law.

"There is nothing in his statement or in the Republican platform to bind dry congressmen or senators. Besides, his position is purely that of the Wickersham Commission, to the effect that there be some kind of federal control without which in some states, the saloon would come back.

"We do not permit any state that wants polygamy to have it. We do not permit any state that wants slavery to have it. We ought not to permit any state that wants to sell cheap divorces to have them, and we ought not to permit any state that wants the saloon to have that, too."

SLAYER CALM AT DEATH CHAIR

Sylvester Norman Fernandez 25 of Mashpee, paid with his life for the slaying of John Alves in December 1931 in the electric chair at Charlestown State Prison shortly after midnight today.

The convicted slayer, the 41st man to die in the electric chair here, was by far the calmest man to walk the "last mile" to the State Prison death house, according to officials.

He showed no emotion entering the tiny death chamber with the Rev. Ralph W. Farrell, prison chaplain, and asked only to be allowed to shake hands and bid farewell to Dr. Joseph R. McLaughlin, prison doctor and James E. Bowers, of the Barnstable house of correction.

TAX RATE CUT $6 IN SAUGUS

A cut of $6.05 in the Saugus tax rate was announced today by John J. Mullen chairman of the assessors. The 1931 rate was $40.90 and the 1932 rate will be $34.85.

A reduction of almost $60,000 in the 1931 appropriation has brought this year's appropriation to $513,240 the lowest annual figure for some time.

Blondie Is Found at Sister's by Pa

LURLINE was awakened by the shaking of the bed. She looked quickly over at Blondie, lying on her side with her back to Lurline. Blondie's body was shaking convulsively as though she were crying.

"Aw, cut that out. Crying won't get you anywhere."

There was no answer, but Blondie became more convulsed.

"Cut it out!" [illegible]

[illegible] Her eyes were [illegible]

"I wasn't crying—I was laughing."

"What at?"

"Thinkin' what a sap I was . . . believin' . . ." [illegible] Blondie, a wan smile on her face.

"And you think you're the only one?" [illegible] from Lurline. "Keep laughing, kid, it's the only thing to do." She put her arms around Blondie and the two girls lay there quiet for a few moments.

Blondie had never been so unhappy in her life. To think that she had fallen completely for Larry and his line! But he was nice! No he wasn't! He had deceived her! And deceived . . . Aw well, what was the use . . . And what about poor Pa! She had run away from him . . . maybe he had run after her? What if he had! And after what the doctor said! Could anything have happened to him! Suddenly she sat up in bed. Turning to Lurline, she cried: "I gotta go home!"

WORRIED ABOUT PA

"What's the idea?" asked Lurline.

"I'm worried . . . about Pa . . . oh, about everything." As she started to get up Lurline put out a restraining hand.

"Take it easy. Let's have some breakfast first," reaching for an embroidered bell pull. "I thought you had quit home!"

"I did, really . . . but I'm going back. I'm worried . . . about . . . about Pa."

The maid entered with the breakfast trays. Blondie stared wide-eyed at the [illegible] with their [illegible] and beautiful dishes, [illegible]

"The first thing you must do is to see Larry."

"But I don't want to . . ." Blondie replied.

"Oh, he'll try to see you . . . you must make it plain that you know everything . . . and that it was a dirty trick to make up to you under the circumstances, get me?"

HE SEEMED SO NICE

"Yes . . ." admitted Blondie, brokenly. "I can't understand it, . . . he seemed so nice . . . he wasn't a bit . . . a bit fresh."

"You don't know men," said Lurline in her grandest manner. Having fixed everything concerning Larry, Lurline changed the subject.

"I can't see why you want to go back to that dump—and that store! You have an opportunity to get in the Follies and have . . ." Lurline looked apprasingly around the room . . . "this. Why be a fool? It's your only chance."

Before Blondie could reply the [illegible]

I remember very well the moment when the difference between [illegible] world and the Russian world was first really brought home to me. We were in a crowded street car [illegible] in Russia are [illegible] crowded [illegible] the company of an English woman who spoke Russian fluently. A drunken man lurched against her; she told him to behave; he, being in the irascible phase of inebriation, growled something at her. She laughed and explained to us that what he had said was: "You're no worker." It was the same impulse which would prompt a man in England to say: "You're no lady," but the phrase is for us standing on its head.

The Russia [illegible]

It is all very interesting; but I feel sometimes, when reading these numerous books on Russia that I shall have to go there myself to discover the real state of things. Mrs. Bemis to Be Hostess

Mrs. F. Gregg Bemis, an active member of the committee sponsoring the older girls' summer recreation program which is conducted at six of the municipal playgrounds by the park commissioner, Mr. William P. Long, and the Community Service of Boston, will be the hostess tomorrow afternoon when the playground directors and assistants are entertained at the country home of Miss Priscilla Bartol, chairman of the committee, who is at present in Chocorua, New Hampshire.

After the final O'Leary Tournament, which is to take place on the Tremont Street Mall of Boston tomorrow morning, in which the playground semi-finalists are competing for city-wide championship, the playground supervisors will take luncheon at the Brittany Coffee Shop, and thence will motor out to Milton.

Assisting Mrs. Bemis at the tea table will be Mrs. Constantine Belash, the former Janet Bartol.

Charity Bridge Today

A charity pivot bridge in aid of the Guild of the Infant Saviour will be held at the South Shore Country Club, Hingham, this afternoon at 2:30.

Play Benefits Hospital Fund

The Ipswich Parish Players are presenting the play "Mr. Pim Passes By," by A. A. Milne tonight at 8:45 for the benefit of the Benjamin Stickney Cable Memorial Hospital, at Castle Hill, Ipswich, the estate of Mrs. R. T. Greene, Jr., which she has offered for this event. A second performance will be given tomorrow night on account of the numbers that have applied for tickets.

Castle Hill makes a unique setting for the play and it has been chosen because the moon is full at this time and given a clear sky, a moonlight night on this charming estate is full of drama in itself. One of the intervals between the acts is to be a long one in order to give the visitors an opportunity to stroll about the grounds.

The patronesses for this event are Mrs. Harcourt Amory, Jr., Mrs. Francis R. Appleton, Mrs. Albert C. Burrage, Jr., Mrs. Richard T. Crane, Jr., Miss Mary Curtis, Mrs. George L. De Blois, Mrs. Francis B. Harrington, Mrs. George S. Mandell, Mrs. Carroll Perry, Mrs. John C. Phillips, Mrs. William Phillips, Mrs. William G. Thayer, Mrs. Isaac Rand Thomas, Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman, and Mrs. Roger Warner.

FIRE AND DEATH FOLLOW RIOTS IN SPAIN

Madrid, Aug. 13 (AP) Rioting and burning reddened much of southern Spain today as the government laid plans to punish Gen Jose Sanjurjo, leader of Wednesday's abortive rebellion, and his followers.

One man was killed and three men were wounded at Santa Fe when civil guards dispersed a group which burned the Agrarian Casino. One workman was killed in a ... fight between laborers and employers.

GUARD KILLED AT SEVILLE

A civil guard was killed when a mob attacked the jail at Seville where cordons of soldiers were posted around religious houses and heavy guards patrolled the streets.

In the towns of San Lucar and Alcolea mobs set fire to the churches, but the fires were extinguished by citizen volunteers.

In Santiponce a mob attacked the mayor, seized his cane and began to beat him with it. He was rescued by a group of Town Hall guards.

MOBS BURN CONVENT

Mobs burned a convent at Alba... and a church at San ... near Granada and afterward ... and set fire to a ... factory, wounding one of the owners.

The death penalty was demanded today by some southern Republican leaders for Gen Sanjurjo. Director of Public Safety Menendez announced a special judge had been designated to preside over the trial.

Let your eyes rest, too, on Eva Puck and Sammy White for another happily married couple. Dancers and comedians, and they laugh at each other's jokes. And Gracie Allen and George Burns. The fellow's actually jealous of her. And just the other night I ran into Howard Dietz, relaxing from his dubious life—I'm not referring to home and fireside life.

I mean as press agent and noted revue author. He fell in love with his lovable Betty when he was a college student at Columbia ... and they've been together ever since and now the sun of success shines down upon them and everybody's happy. There's Eddie Cantor and his missus and his five misses. An old-fashioned wedding was that of Cantor's and it remains an old fashioned marriage. In fact there have been rumors that Eddie turns over his weekly pay envelope to his wife and then spends the rest of the week begging some of it back.

Jail-House Musings:

Why should I pay so big a price
For just a moment of sinning?
With missing you my haunting thought,
Your "good-by" in my ears still ringing?

Days like years in passing,
Nights too, are ages long.
It was from you I learned
The meaning of my song.

Chatter in Hollywood

Honeymoon Soon

Jack Gilbert and his pretty bride can go on a honeymoon when she finishes "Kongo." He will not be the male appeal in "Red Dust" opposite Jean Harlow as originally planned at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Seems Jack has another idea for himself and one okayed by Irving Thalberg. "Chan Sea," which has been on long in preparation, is not yet right for Clark Gable and since it is highly important that the popular Clark get something soon he will probably be starred in "Red Dust." Dorothy Mackaill has been summoned for a test for the other woman's part, almost equal to that to be played by Miss Harlow.

Jim, Herbie Share News

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Jimmy Walker and Herbie Hoover are the strawberry jam on the front page toast today.

They're spread all over it. Herbie accepted a nomination while Jimmy is trying to dodge one.

It's a far cry from Albany to Washington even if Jimmy is laughing.

American politics operate on the golden rule that you must investigate the other guy before he investigates you.

One minute you are on top. Next you are on bottom. Every grocery-man knows that a basket of bad berries looks better when you shake it up.

No matter what happens to James he will always be New York's fair haired boy. The women will vote for him to a man.

He's smart. He looks nice. Dresses dapper. Talks well. Writes songs. Sings them. Plays them on the piano. Dances beautifully. The lad gave up a good career to be mayor of New York.

Listen, World! 'Belief'

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I HAVE DISCOVERED the secret. PEOPLE WILL DO ANYTHING FOR YOU IF YOU BELIEVE IN THEM.

Any kind of people, all kinds of people, will do anything, even perform seeming miracles for you, if you believe in them.

Elsie Robinson

BUT YOU MUST REALLY BELIEVE IN THEM, AND SUCH BELIEF IS A RARE, ALMOST AN IMPOSSIBLE THING FOR ONE HUMAN BEING TO FEEL TOWARD ANOTHER.

We say we ...

WE ONLY BELIEVE IN OTHER PEOPLE WHEN THEY DO WHAT WE THINK THEY SHOULD DO. WHEN THEY FIT OUR PET PATTERN OF BEHAVIOR OUR BELIEF IN THEM STOPS THE MOMENT THEY DEPART FROM THAT PATTERN OF BEHAVIOR AND INSIST ON FOLLOWING THEIR OWN ... ERN.

... AS SHE BELIEVES IN THE GOODNESS IN HERSELF IN SPITE OF EVERYTHING SHE MAY DO.

... If you believe REALLY BELIEVE in a person ... even when they're lying, that they want to be pure even when they're wallowing, that they want to be brave even when they're two-timing themselves and the world.

FOR THE TRUTH IS THEY DO! THAT IS THE DEEPEST AND LOVELIEST MYSTERY OF THE HUMAN HEART, AND IF YOU CAN ONCE GRASP THAT MYSTERY AND BELIEVE IN PEOPLE REGARDLESS THEY'LL DO ANYTHING FOR YOU OUT OF GRATITUDE AND PRIDE.

THEY'LL EVEN CHANGE THEMSELVES—IF YOU BELIEVE IN THEM DEEP ENOUGH.

I know. For once there was someone who believed in me like that when all the world was against me ...

Daily True Story

Mike Gets a Job

MIKE COOMBS edged further back under the projecting edge of a coal car and listened to the song of the rails. That freight was highballing through the night fast. He ought to be a long way south by morning.

"Do you think we're the Pullman Company?" the brakeman holding it demanded. "You'll have to get down from there."

LIKE OLD TIMES

"This is like the old time hiking in France," he murmured to himself, "except that there's no pack and rifle to lug and no rolling kitchen bringing my breakfast."

A HOLDUP

"The bonds ain't here. He must have them in his coat pocket. Search him Tony."

MIKE'S CAPTURE

"I don't know how to thank you!" exclaimed the elderly man he had rescued. "I received a package of valuable bonds in the city and my chauffeur was bringing me home when our engine went dead here and these men sprang out of the bushes at us a few minutes later. How could they have learned about the bonds?"

"I think I know," said Mike, moving suddenly toward the stalled car. With one practised hand, he felt under the dashboard while his other hand held the gun on his prisoners.

"Yes, here it is. See this gauge? Your chauffeur turned off the gas and of course the motor quit. He was in with the bandits and engineered the whole plot."

"That explains everything—and if you want to thank me, just give me the job he had. I'll be satisfied."

Suggestions to Housewives

TO MAKE aluminum ware look like new, rub the articles with a damp cloth dipped in silver sand, wash in hot soapy water, dry and polish with a soft cloth.

MUCH CLEANING powder can be saved if apple peelings or rhubarb skins are boiled in saucepans. The acid is an excellent cleanser.

WATERCRESS, radishes, lettuce, cress, tomatoes and beetroot are all blood purifying and should be eaten freely during the warm months.

A SWISS ROLL makes an excellent pudding if heated gently over steam. Serve a jam roll with custard and a chocolate roll with white sauce.

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When a woman enters a motor with a young man, is it best for her to be seated upon his right as at other occasions, or to observe the rule to seat herself nearest the door of the car where she enters it?

It is best for the woman to take the place at the right of the man.

Introduction

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

How should a young man in the department head introduce a new girl stenographer to the president of the firm, a man about 50 years old? B. L.

This introduction might be made like this: "Miss Allen, Mrs. Morris," or "Miss Allen, Mr. Morris, the president of the firm."

FRIEND TOLD HIM ABOUT ALL-BRAN

And It Brought Relief From Constipation

Those who are bothered with constipation should read Mr. Gelpke's unsolicited letter:

"I have suffered with constipation for years. A friend of mine told me to try ALL-BRAN. I have taken ALL-BRAN for the past six weeks as a breakfast food. It has regulated my bowels as clockwork. Now I would not be without a package at all times."—Mr. Leslie Gelpke, 273 Ridgewood Ave., Newark, N. J.

Common constipation—with its headaches, loss of appetite, sleeplessness—is due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines. Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. Both are present in Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. Being a natural corrective, ALL-BRAN is not habit-forming.

Try ALL-BRAN in place of pills and drugs—so often harmful. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—serious cases with every meal. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

In the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

SLICE OF LIFE FOR ALL FACED WITH TROUBLE

By B. C. FORBES

Stern financiers, busy business men, investors need not read this column [illegible] economic conditions, not a word about [illegible] or foreign exchange or securities [illegible].

Maybe [illegible] story [illegible] here. Maybe it is.

[illegible] as that of the Bible how conditions worse than those today afflicting most Americans were [illegible].

Rose to Heights From Poverty

It comes from J. Kindleberger, well-known Kalamazoo paper manufacturer, who had to fight his way against more than the normal number [illegible] by the average poor boy.

"There were six children. The oldest was sixteen; the youngest, a babe in arms. Father's wages were one dollar per day. About five dollars weekly went to the corner saloon; but mother managed somehow to get the loose change left in his pockets.

"Now how did this great mother clothe and feed her children? There were no civic leagues, no charity associations, no doles in those days. One just had to help himself as best he could.

"On Saturday evenings, at seven-thirty (I shall always remember the day and the hour) mother would take her large market basket and start for the market, which closed at eight. She always made it a point to get there just about 10 or fifteen minutes before closing time. Then the farmers sold their last few potatoes and vegetables for a few pennies. She received an armful of soup bones for about three cents; a few loaves of old bread for two cents a loaf; and a package of coffee essence.

"This basket of food and the wonderful skill possessed by mother as a soup-maker kept the little flock healthy.

"Mother, too, suggested for the four older children literally hundreds of ways to make a nickel here and a dime there; such as, cleaning up the back yards of the neighbors, running errands, getting kindling and coal, shining shoes, selling papers, picking up peach seeds out of the gutter. For these seeds we received five cents a quart at the old soldiers' home. The old soldiers made their beer money whittling out little trinkets from these peach seeds.

"These nickels and dimes, together with the wash money mother made, paid the rent.

"One unsolved mystery is how and where did mother get all the old clothes wherewith we were clothed. My pants and coats were several sizes too large, but she continually reminded us that we were growing so fast that in just a few months they would fit perfectly.

"Far into the night she would rip and cut and sew our clothes. When we complained a little about our hardships, she would say, 'Well, we must do the best we can with what we have. Some day conditions will be better—and God always helps those who help themselves.'"

Some Complain With Millions

One man recently complained almost weepingly to me that most of his millions had disappeared and that he had only a few millions left.

I know a woman who was made supremely happy by getting a few weeks' work at two dollars a day and her keep, after months of idleness.

Commendable Fortitude of Jobless

Isn't everything in this world relative?

Aren't there millions still enjoying greater comforts than our forefathers—who, because they have had to forgo some accustomed luxuries and perhaps a few comforts, are whimpering and whining about their lot, plaguing everyone with mournful outpourings of self-pity?

How many of them are wrestling with half as heartbreaking problems as those which this humble, worthy woman faced year after year?

The exemplary behaviour of our unemployed should make the rest of us ashamed to go around complaining and crying.

HALF BILLION IN NEW CREDIT IS PLANNED

By FRANK H. MELOON

There is now nearing the definite announcement of the Commodity Credit Corp. on which Eugene Meyer has been working with leading bankers. It is expected early next week at the latest. It is understood the new corporation will sell debentures and that the plan calls for ultimate total of $100,000,000 capital which would create at least a potential credit expansion of $[illegible].

A New Englander, Winthrop M Daniels, professor of transportation at Yale, is the latest favorite candidate for the position of [illegible] czar for the western railroads. Thomas Nelson Perkins, chairman of the Boston & Maine, was an initial suggestion but it was soon made known he would be unlikely to accept the post. Sir Henry Thornton, retiring from Canadian [illegible] was later named as a candidate.

After reading the views of American [illegible] The Economist, leading British financial newspaper, in an editorial [illegible] Wall Street [illegible]:

"On the whole one may expect the recovery of American fixed interest securities to be maintained or even advanced. The future course of equity shares which have attracted speculative rather than investment buying remains a gamble upon the next movement of commodity prices."

For the past 24 hours the most important bit of news from a financial standpoint and generally [illegible] concerned the New York Central. The road's management was quoted as announcing:

"An indicated increase in its carloading requirements for the latter half of August. The increase is unofficially estimated from 13 to 18 per cent over the first half of the month."

Such items alone offer promise to justify the market's great optimism. Unless a background of [illegible] is built up to support the [illegible] of prices the structure will topple.

However, the bull cliques continue aggressively marking up their favorites firm in the belief "the public will come in." Brokers' loans during the past week were up $13,000,000 but [illegible] interpreting loans bullishly whether they are up or down. If up they reflect increasing public participation; if down the loans show strong buying has taken place.

—SPECTATOR— Says:

The market again confounded the growing number of skeptics who are waiting, and hoping, for at least a sizable reaction. Stocks don't go down much. The important thing now is whether the advance has reached the distribution stage. Some good selling has been noted in the last few days. Furthermore, the mark-up in some of the low-priced issues, which have little but hope behind them, is not a healthy sign.

Cautiousness

Yet growing skepticism with some attendant short selling tend to help rather than hurt the market. The best thing at this time is to grow increasingly cautious and see how stocks act.

Sentiment on wheat turned bullish. Recent losses, he said, was due largely to touching off stop loss orders.

Here and There

For the present anyway no big slump in prices is likely. The big push in the market has the background of trying to stimulate sentiment in the hope this would help business recovery. Giving up the ghost now would be a staggering blow. So that reactions are likely to be fairly orderly and as have been seen more of the 1929 shakeout variety . . .

The floor broker who was the first to call the turn on Union Pacific and incidentally made a killing has switched to Delaware & Hudson. There is a good deal of [illegible] to the [illegible] of L. F. Loree's [illegible] N. J. Central [illegible] D & H has a paper profit of millions.

Mexico City, Aug. 12. In [illegible] with the policy of 1932 [illegible] administration, the Banco de Mexico has suppressed the banking school which it established about two years ago. The school had a successful career. It was the first of its kind to be established in Mexico and taught all branches of banking. At first it was only for employes of the bank's offices here and branches of the bank throughout Mexico, but in view of many petitions its facilities were allowed employes of other banks and financial institutions. Recently the school established a correspondence instruction service.

FARMERS' GRAIN CORP. PROFIT IS MILLION

Chicago, Aug. 12 (AP). Stockholders of the Farmers National Grain Corporation who meet in annual session Tuesday, will be told by their president, Clarence E. Huff, that the co-operative has netted approximately $1,000,000 during the past year in its handling of 25 per cent of the nation's grain business.

Huff, the Salina, Kansas, preacher farmer who rose to prominence in the co-operative marketing movement, today revealed the corporation's earnings, made he said despite the collapse in grain prices.

He denied his organization harbored enmity toward the Chicago Board of Trade, which was recently ordered to close 60 days because it [illegible] membership to [illegible] organization of the Farmers National Grain Corporation.

"We don't want to drive the board of trade out of business," Huff said. "We have no enmity toward it. But legally and morally we have a right to membership and trading privileges there."

Huff, a soft-spoken man of middle height, farmer-born and reared, reflects both his quaker ancestry and his ministerial avocation in the quiet serenity with which he tells of his origin and identification with the co-operative marketing movement since its inception.

During his twenties he built a church, organized a congregation of his family and neighbors. Later he was ordained a minister and served the church for 12 years without salary, turning to his farm for a livelihood.

It was as an active farmer that he aided in forming a [illegible] operative when the idea was first [illegible] in Kansas [illegible] secretary and then president.

[illegible] He was president of the Kansas Farmers [illegible] and [illegible] co-operative.

Monsanto's main products include medical and fine chemicals, heavy chemicals, intermediates and diverse coal tar products. Distribution is affected to practically all important industries as well as the drug and pharmaceutical trades. Heavy chemicals bulk largest in point of sales. Foreign operations conducted through a British manufacturing subsidiary have been well maintained and account for about 25 per cent of total business.

Cigar Machinery's Net $1.01 a Share

International Cigar Machinery Co., which is controlled by American Machine & Foundry Co., for the six months ended June 30, 1932, reports gross revenue of $1,270,379 against $1,637,680 in the first half of 1931. Net profit, after all expenses, depreciation and taxes amounted to $605,345, equal to $1.01 earned per share on the 603,000 shares outstanding, [illegible] 02 or $1.41 per share reported for the first half of 1931.

Price Adjustment in Penn. Crude Oil

South Penn Oil Co. has made a reduction of 3 cents per barrel in Pennsylvania grade crude oils. New prices are: South West Penn pipe lines, $1.72; Eureka pipe lines, $1.67; Buckeye pipe lines, $1.52. Others are unchanged.

It is understood reduction is due to increased tariffs which covered the new government tax.

Today's News of Live Stocks in Wall Street

A bad taste was created by the widely-propagandized "plan for reviving Russian-American trade," which the reports stated was to be financed by bond sales to Americans. The big banks laughed at the story but the bulls in the agricultural implement stocks and others which might be expected to favor from any resumption of official trade relations with the Soviet attempted to capitalize the promise.

To unbiased observers the Russian story was accepted as additional proof of the existence of a campaign to stir in the market through a series of reports or announcements, even though some of them sound far fetched.

PRICES MIXED IN WALL ST. DEALINGS

New York, Aug. 12—Prices were mixed in an active market on the New York Stock Exchange today. Of a "celebration" in the stock market following President Hoover's acceptance speech found little evidence in actual dealings.

The opening saw further heavy profit-taking in leading issues with initial losses running to a point and more a share. A few specialties, notably those that would benefit directly from the end of prohibition, were strong, reflecting the President's conversion to the wet cause.

TRADING AT FAST PACE

Trading held at a fast pace with good-sized blocks coming out on the tape. Leaders fluctuated in erratic fashion.

Case fell back 4 points to 56. U. S. Steel dropped 2 to 40¼. International Harvester, American Telephone, Union Pacific, New York Central, and Liggett and Myers B sagged a point or more. American Telephone quickly came back to sell fractionally above yesterday's close, then reacted.

An erratic price movement characterized trading on the bond market. The tone of the list as a whole, however, tended toward firmness.

There was definite demand again in evidence for the low-priced and speculative railroad bonds.

Erie Railroad obligations were in good demand as were a number of other low priced issues such as the Missouri Pacific, Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul & Pacific Railroad, Chicago & Northwestern and several others.

FOREIGN BONDS IMPROVE

United States Government obligations were turned over in moderate volume and the price movement was generally irregular with easly prices showing gains up 3.32 of a point against losses in other issues of about 3.32 of a point. The foreign government list showed some signs of improvement.

The three trunk lines party to the eastern railroad consolidation plan, together with the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., will urge upon the latter a compromise move with respect to its New England holdings at meeting today between executives of the four trunk lines.

Pennsylvania will be urged to agree to trustee all its direct holdings in the New Haven Railroad, if refuse to part with those shares which it holds indirectly by virtue of the Pennroad Corp. in the New Haven and Boston & Maine railroads. In its modified plan the I. C. C. insisted that all holdings of the Pennsylvania, direct or indirect, be trusteed before approval will be given to the company consolidating its proposed 18,000-mile system.

Among items of overnight news are the weekly bank statements, showing the surprisingly small ... of $13,000,000 in brokers' loans, again indicating that the market had seen large-scale buying for cash. The statements showed a return of funds to the banks after the month-end settlements.

Excess reserves at the federal increased about $50,000,000, despite the fact that the system cut its outstanding credit by $31,000,000. There was a gratifying reduction of $21,000,000 in currency in circulation, and gold stock increased $15,000,000.

Study of Business Failures Is Given

Bradstreet's reports that business failures were at "record heights" during July as compared with the same month of other years. The total number was 2547, an increase of 2.3 per cent over June and 31.9 per cent over July, 1931. Although a slight upward trend is normal, the actual increase was "much greater than usual." Liabilities, on the other hand, contracted 15.3 per cent from $275,236,000 in June to $233,021,000 in July, due to smaller losses by banks, which showed a 46 per cent reduction.

Kansas Standard's Half Year in Red

Standard Oil Co. of Kansas reports for six months ended June 30 net loss, including equity in current period's losses of subsidiaries, of $401,535 after charges, depreciation and obsolescence, against net loss in first half of 1931 of $930,457 after depreciation, inventory adjustments, etc.

For quarter ended June 30 net loss was $221,422 after charges, etc., against net loss of $180,113 (revised) the preceding quarter.

Benefits of Insurance Income Are Named

By FRANK F. LOOMIS

Fear and worry, particularly that disturbed state of mind that comes with financial uncertainty, have shortened more lives than any dreaded diseases. Our modern life, with its economic pressures, its hustling pace makes more people now than ever before long for the satisfaction that comes with peace of mind.

Consequently today life insurance is more highly appreciated than ever before because it gives that security which everyone is seeking . . . security for his family after his death . . . financial independence for himself in later years. Many a harried business man has been able to sleep peacefully during the past two or three years because of the assurance which life insurance has afforded.

A man who wants to leave an estate to his family, make sure that in his old age he will never be forced to turn to charity or burden his children with his support, can do so by purchasing one of the many policies now being issued by life insurance companies, which assure a guaranteed income for life and consequently freedom from financial worry in old age.

In addition to the guaranteed monthly life income, other important provisions are incorporated in many of these contracts. In illustration of one such contract, called an Endowment Annuity at age 65, on the basis of $2400 annuity beginreturn after age 65, $24,000, the life insurance protection and annuity provisions are as follows:

In case of the insured's death prior to age 65, beneficiary receives $200 a month for 10 years. Guarantee is $24,000, plus excess interest dividends.

In event of the insured's death by accident before 65, beneficiary receives $400 a month for 10 years. Total, $48,000.

If the insured becomes totally and permanently disabled before 55, he receives $100 a month during total disability until 65, when the old age income for twice that amount commences. All premiums are canceled during period of disability.

The contract participates in the dividend earnings of the company after the second year, which reduces the cost, and also carries cash and loan values.

If desired, in lieu of the life income, a cash option of $26,000 is available in one sum by the insured at age 65.

The cost of this contract for a man at age 35 years is about $850 a year.

MARKET VIEWS OF BROKERS

Theodore Prince & Co.—It may well be that last night's speech (Hoover's) will mark the ending of the first phase of this rally, but we would wait for further evidences of a stop before disposing of any more stock.

"Paine, Webber & Co.—We look for the industrial group to push through last Monday's tops today, probably at the opening, thereby confirming the bullish trend of the rails and leading to higher prices for the whole market, including the utilities.

Clark, Childs & Keech—The more advisable speculative procedure is obvious. It is to reduce or eliminate long positions for the time being pending the development of better buying opportunities or conclusive evidence that the advance is to be resumed.

E. A. Pierce & Co.—We think that trading discretion dictates taking profits even though reaction is not immediate.

Brockway Motor to Be Taken From List

New York, Aug. 12—New York Stock Exchange ordered common and preferred shares of Brockway Motor Truck Corp. to be stricken from list on August 16 because, it was said, company failed to live up to agreement made for listing of shares, which provides for publication of periodical reports.

Institutional Buying Is in Preferred Rail List

In a study of the question of who owns preferred stocks, the Standard Statistics Company, of New York, has found that the individual investor favors the industrials and utilities while the institutional holder tends to go in for rails. The following tabulation shows the percentage distribution of a large quantity of preferred stocks (43,000,000 shares) among various classes of owners.

	Indus.	Util.	Rails	Total

MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY

There is one man among the athletes competing in the Olympic Games who stands apart, and looks wistfully toward the mountains when the band strikes up this or that national anthem. Asked his name and what contest he intended to enter, he only replied, in a strange tongue, "What does it matter?" He is the Man Without a Country, and the above picture shows him as he marched in the parade of Flags of All Nations. "Where were you born?" snapped a kindly old lady, after he had been denied a chance to participate in the eight-oared rowing races. "In a balloon," he answered, as he pivoted on the heel of his left foot, and marched with a smart military carriage to the back of the grandstand. Just a slice of life!

REAL RADIO VAGABOND Wanderlust Grips Microphone Man

Veteran Artist Feels Urge to Roam

By N. F. T.

Meeting an old timer who has served many years before the "mike" here, there and everywhere, accounts for the following.

AWFUL AWAKENING

Down a long, long trail 'awinding
Last night I walked in a dream.
I traveled far and became a star.
How wonderful it did seem!

Tenors, sopranos and baritones,
With theme songs filled the air.
It must have been radio heaven
For I saw no crooners there!

But then came morning sunlight,
Fretfully I awoke;
Joy departed, back where I started,
Alas, as ever, I'm broke!
—Ray D. O'Scribe.

WANTS TO WANDEL.

But wait, our not altogether pessimistic friend had an idea. Deep in his heart he desires to actually hit that dream trail to radio prominence. What's more, he fully intends to up and do so one of these days before long. Somehow the plan that has taken shape in his mind sounds sensible, at least it abounds in possibilities for one of his temperament. Visualize him please as an industrious, sincere type. Think of him not as a storm tossed veteran, with nothing left but a lot of enthusiastic illusions. As in the manufactured verse above, he is not entirely "broke" at all. Right now, he contemplates a vagabond tour, dropping in on radio stations in cities all over the world. He says he will be busy soon arranging for his appearance and sponsorship in each center beforehand. Once having aired his mature philosophy, human interest stories and narratives based on his own personal career, he feels certain he can continue to supply colorful material such as will prove welcome as an air attraction anywhere. So much for his high hopes. May he likewise have the courage to execute every detail. This radio Robinson Crusoe to be, is perhaps too much of a human being. That word perhaps should be emphasized too, because there is a better than even chance said old timer, if it makes him as is, quite capable of proving his idea has a market on its merit. Win or lose, wish him well as your Uncle N. F. T. goes here now. Incidentally, thanks old friend, for taking the "colyum" me to tell your story. Good luck!

GOV. ROOSEVELT BY RADIO

Close on the heels of President Hoover's acceptance speech, aired last night, comes announcement of the first campaign radio speech by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic standard bearer during the coming election. Governor Roosevelt will be heard over NBC networks when he fires his opening verbal gun at Columbus, O., next Saturday, Aug. 20. So far as is known at present, his address will reach New England over WBZ waves at 4 o'clock that afternoon.

An outstanding industrial leader of New England, Henry I. Harriman, is scheduled to speak (WAAB) tomorrow night between 10:15 and 10:45, a guest on that Public Affairs Institute period. Mr. Harriman has long been identified with community utilities in his section, having been head of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, chairman of the Massachusetts Metropolitan Planning Board and a trustee of Wesleyan University. His talk tomorrow night treats "The Road to Business Stability." It will be his first public utterance since becoming president of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

WALSH PAPERS FILED

Redmond L. Walsh of 94 Elm st., Charlestown, today filed nomination papers with the municipal election commissioners for the Democratic nomination for Governor's Council in the second district. He hopes to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of James H. Brennam, also of Charlestown, who is a candidate for Congress. "Red" has received the endorsement of the political group led by City Councillor Thomas H. Green of the Bunker Hill district.

Frank Archer at His Desk on Birthday

Frank Archer celebrated his birthday today at his desk as usual. That he has a firm belief that the depression is over is evidenced by the fact that he has just released the biggest campaign of newspaper advertising ever undertaken for his beverages, Moxie and Pureoxia ginger ale.

FRANK M. ARCHER

He says the reason he uses dominating advertising space in the daily newspapers is because during his more than 50 years as an extensive advertiser he has never failed to get immediate results from this medium. The recently issued statement of his company showed a 33 per cent gain for the first six months of this year.

LARGEST NEW ENGLAND EVENING CIRCULATION

THE FORGOTTEN PEOPLE OF MASSACHUSETTS

THE government of the United States and the great banks of the United States went to the rescue of institutions in distress and which were threatened by runs.

That was all very fine.

But isn't it about time for SOMEBODY to go to the relief of the suffering depositors of the closed banks in Massachusetts?

There were sixteen trust companies and two savings banks closed and taken over by the bank commissioner during a brief, but costly, upheaval in the Commonwealth.

* * *

THE people of Massachusetts had intrusted about $132,000,000 to the care of these closed banks. Of that amount, $77,000,000 were the small and simple savings accounts which mean so much to the security and welfare of our average citizens of very moderate means.

We have seen $132,000,000 taken out of circulation in Massachusetts.

But the tragic feature is that the owners of this $77,000,000 of savings deposits have been deprived of their life savings, acquired by a life of hard work and thrift, at a time when thousands of these depositors have lost their jobs and are utterly bereft of income to maintain themselves and their families except by resort to public charity.

THESE are the "FORGOTTEN PEOPLE" of MASSACHUSETTS, for whom so little concern has been demonstrated, and who have been allowed to endure their suffering while billions of public money have been poured out for relief of banks, railroads and going institutions.

Some of these banks were closed a year ago, and these depositors, by and large, have not received a penny of their savings. THEY HAVE LIVED IN UTTER POVERTY, many of them, WHILE THE STATE GOES THROUGH THE INTERMINABLE PROCESS CALLED "LIQUIDATION" of the closed banks.

They deserve to be helped, and they can be helped by a very simple process if the bankers of the going and powerful banks in this State have any disposition whatever to aid these people in their hour of distress.

Every banker knows that every one of these closed banks will ultimately pay at least 25 per cent of the savings deposits.

These going banks, therefore, ought to agree among themselves to loan the depositors up to 25 per cent of their deposits in the closed banks.

Their passbooks should be regarded as ample and sufficient security.

* * *

THE banks, like the First National and the National Shawmut, for example, ought to establish right here in Boston a central, unified agency of their own to make the loans to the depositors who come and offer their passbooks as collateral.

What would be the result?

Idle money would be put to work. The bankers might charge them, say 6 per cent for the loans, and what better investment could be made by them at a time like this? The depositors would get some money with which to pay their bills and to maintain their families decently. They would be saved from the clutches of loan sharks who charge them extortionate rates of interest, unless the reputable banks intervene.

* * *

THE banks would be performing not only a sound financial duty, but they will be discharging the moral obligation which they have to the public as a whole; the public which give them their charters and enable them to engage in the banking business.

They would receive an approval in public sentiment, which is very necessary to them and which will prove profitable to them.

"Keep Your Shirt On!"

You May Need It Next Winter

Professor Lewis Haney of New York University sounds a note of warning on the current activity in the stock market.

Without being gloomy about it Professor Haney sees few signs of an immediate business recovery, and doubts whether the rise in stocks is fundamentally warranted yet.

He points to these facts in support of his opinion:

1—There has been no improvement in basic industries, notably steel. On the contrary, the July figures show new low levels in steel production.

2—Motor sales for the month are below those in June, and considerably below those in July of last year.

3—Railway car loadings—an excellent index of conditions—gained last week, but the gain seems to be merely seasonal, and at all events is less than for the same period a year ago.

4—The unemployed now number 11,600,000, if the American Federation of Labor's estimate is accurate. This is the greatest total in American history.

There are, of course, many encouraging indications of improvement from widely separated parts of the country. And only the dullest person can fail to sense the marked change in "depression psychology."

A few weeks ago most Americans had resigned themselves to several years more of the slump.

They are now beginning to feel that perhaps the end is already in sight.

This new outlook is one of the most encouraging features of the situation, and it may well be the most important.

Pessimism never gets anybody anywhere.

A reasonable amount of optimism does, and will.

Professor Haney performs a useful service, however, by advising prudence at this period.

The American people have a bad habit of rushing to extremes.

Nobody was richer, on paper, than he was in the Summer of 1929.

Nobody has been poorer, on paper, since the Fall of that year.

Hence, "keep your shirt on," is a good rule to follow now.

Many cannot follow it, as they have no shirts.

But those who still have them will do well to heed Professor Haney's counsel.

A shirt or two will come in handy next Winter.

Use Your Imagination

Edison, working as a young man in Boston, imagined the incandescent light.

Morse, a native Bostonian, imagined the telegraph.

Wanamaker imagined a great store.

Give rein to your imagination. Nothing is more precious than an idea.

It has been said that every man in his lifetime could write one good novel out of his imagination, and that every man has at least one good idea. The trouble with most men is that they let it slumber, without trying to put it into operation.

By Edgar A. Guest

Just Folks

Old Trouble

Old Trouble's a servant to good men and brave,
But a tyrant to those it can fret and enslave.
Who runs in affright when it raps at the door
Will merely come back to a care or two more.
But stand up and battle it out to the end
And you'll find that Old Trouble was really your friend.

Old Trouble is ugly and fearsomely made.
He looks like a ghost, and if you are afraid
He'll boo you and shoo you right out of your place,
But if you've the courage to stand face to face
And throw back your shoulders and stick out your chin
You'll find the old monster is glad if you win.

The fact is Old Trouble's not all that he seems,
His job is to try out the dreamer of dreams,
To see what he's made of, and what he can bear.
So he tests him with danger and doubt and despair.
But the fellow who thinks that life easy should be,
At the first sign of trouble is certain to flee.

Old Trouble's the maker of men, not their foe.
He's their chance in this world to display what they know;
The proof of their courage, the test of their worth;
Without him we might be as worms in the earth.
So let's stand when he threatens and see the fight through,
And learn from Old Trouble just what we can do.

Thoughts While Strolling

NEW YORK, August 12 — Thoughts while strolling: 1932 definition of a gentleman—a man who gives his seat o a bar stool to a lady. They say Willie and Eugene Howard were never in a night club. Kate Cross's headbright eyes. What became of Frederic and Fanny Hatton?

Lawrence Tibbett somehow suggests a stooge to me. Mrs. H. L. Mencken is a ringer for Katherine Brush. The next step in The Great American Gyp for investors is the receivership racket. They'll take what is left. Ralph Barton's brother, Homer—an actor. Sophisticated magazines flounder.

What happened to all those crooked magistrates? Al Smith and Will Rogers have noses alike. One of my favorite people—Earl Benham. Theatres for rent for a song. But no one even feels like singing it. One word description of Ann Pennington—Spaneery. Ray Long and Lionel Barrymore talk alike.

Major Edward Bowes, a San Francisco, Cal., boy, who made good in the city. Whenever an auto bears down on me, the horizon takes on the shimmer of wheat. Overheard: "What I need is a huge jolt of terribly rude liquor." Well-dressed actors straining against oblivion.

Wish some newspaper would start an "Agony Column." Like that in the London Times. Filled with such personalities as: "Maggie—I'm shipping from Liverpool. I'll be a better boy when I come back. Keep away from the toff—Tim." Nobody can deliver a toast so gracefully as Dudley Field Malone.

And few toasts equal Kipling's: "My lords, ladies and gentlemen. For what there is of it—for such as it is—and for what it may be worth—will you drink to England and the English." "What the undressed man will wear!"

There are many speculations as to why scrappy John McGraw quit baseball—ill health, age, etc. The truth is, he got out because modern players today refuse to go to bed at 11 o'clock. McGraw's white hair saved him from roughage in the past few years.

Always, in passing the north side of the Astor, I think of Kid Griffo and that unsightly ear in complete cauliflower. He hung out there in final days. The last time I saw him, he was stimulated by drink, shadow boxing in a dusty chiffon of light for passersby—battered, grimy, beaten. Cops looked the other way. A tragic end for perhaps the cleverest boxer of all time.

A parlor prestidigitateur was executing astonishing feats of magic at Arthur William Brown's studio party. He plucked flowers, guineapigs and what-not out of the air, handed members of his audience cocktails and goblets of wine, shaken out of their own handkerchiefs, and wound up extracting a wiggling goldfish from a lady's hair. When the applause subsided, James Montgomery Flagg from a faraway corner, inquired: "Could you weave us a Panama hat under water?"

In the film version of "Red Headed Woman," the opening observation, a bit contradictory, is that gentlemen prefer blondes. The screen version, my program told me, was by Anita Loos, who authored the famous volume stressing that popular pronouncement. Anyway, I remarked to a companion that no mediocre book had been so whirled to meteoric success by the sheer grip of an arresting title, i. e., "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." In so doing, I learned the title was an editor's. It was turned out originally as "The Diary of a Professional Lady." A mew has crept into this, but that was not the intention. It's just the way it is.

During the cocktail hour, among American and English correspondents at Berlin's Adlon bar, recently, Leon Gordon, listening awhile, slipped away and returned, slyly scooping a sign on the mahogany. It read: "German Spoken."

Daily Bible Text— "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed."—II Timothy ii, 15.

Time Has Passed When People Will Stand for Spoliation by Utilities

More than a year ago—to be exact, on May 29th, 1931—Bainbridge Colby, in an article published in the Hearst newspapers, described the Utility Holding Company as "a vicious maze" and expressed amazement that it had been deemed desirable to cast the great industry of generating and distributing electric power into such a form.

"Not even the Cretan labyrinth," said he, "was so bewildering as the holding company of today."

The corporate set-up of the Middle West Utilities Company was briefly sketched, showing how its interweaving corporate relationships broadened down from the holding company at the apex of the pyramid through succeeding layers of subsidiaries, until it finally reached the sub-sub-sub-subsidiary at the bottom.

Mr. Colby described the Middle West Utilities Company as "A MASTERPIECE OF DESIGNED CONFUSION."

Sharp replies were soon forthcoming from the company's executives, protesting against this description and maintaining that "the whole ESSENCE OF THE HOLDING COMPANY form of organization IS SIMPLICITY." The president of the company, Martin J. Insull, made it the theme of an address before the convention of the National Electric Light Association in Atlantic City on June 11th, 1931, in which he accused Mr. Colby of prejudice in using the words "a masterpiece of designed confusion."

"He might say the same thing," said Mr. Insull, "about other holding investment organizations in and out of the utility field, and make the same mistake."

BUT WAS IT A MISTAKE?

The collapse of the Middle West Utilities Company is now a matter of financial history. But its wreckage strews the scene. Courts, lawyers, receivers, reorganization committees and investors' protective committees almost without number, are struggling to bring some semblance of order out of the company whose "essence" was "simplicity."

A recent article in the New York Herald Tribune is devoted entirely to the confusion confronting the investigators of the company's affairs. "Designed Confusion" is one of the headlines of the article, and a sub-heading is "Authorities Call Set-up a Masterpiece of Tangle."

The problem of unravelling the tangle is stated to be "so complicated, according to several of the attorneys, it will take at least two years before the situation is untangled."

The various protective groups are planning a general reorganization committee with a chairman having the over-riding power of a generalissimo. His task, it is said, will be one of the most difficult ever presented to a business group.

Reference is made to the "legal barbed wire" surrounding the Insull situation, which attorneys have made no attempt to unravel, contenting themselves thus far with an endeavor to sort the various pieces of the system into separate groups, with a view of trying later to assemble the "PUZZLE."

Last January, the Middle West Utilities Company alone and its subsidiaries, it was estimated, had $1,620,000,000 of securities outstanding. This did not take into account the securities issued by various other Insull companies, including those of other holding companies which were a part of the "Insull public utility empire."

EMPIRE in truth—FOR A LITTLE WHILE. BUT GREAT WAS THE FALL THEREOF.

It is important that the lesson of this collapse should not be lost. It concerns not alone the consumer, who, in the charges he pays for electric service, supports the corporate pagodas such as the "Insull Utility Empire." It also concerns the trustful investor who mistakes for value the worthless paper he buys from the "investment banker."

The depression and its ghastly losses, both in faith and dollars, will not have been without its benefits if it leads to a sounder business morality—to more stringent laws and preventative measures in the public interest and a more vigilant supervision of the utility organizations by the PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSIONS.

Through struggle and hardship we scale the heights—per aspera ad astra. Losses which lead to improved conditions as to protection and security are not to be viewed only as losses. They have elements of true gain.

But there must be no more "masterpieces of designed confusion"—no more plunder of the innocent investor, no more oppression of the consumer class to provide profits for promoters.

The continued spoliation of the American people by the utility interests will not be tolerated.
